Qt contains some code that is not provided under the GNU General Public License (GPL), GNU Lesser General Public License (LGPL) or the Qt Commercial License Agreement, but rather under specific licenses from the original authors. Some pieces of code were developed by Nokia and others originated from third parties. This page lists the licenses used, names the authors, and links to the places where it is used. Nokia gratefully acknowledges these and other contributions to Qt. We recommend that programs that use Qt also acknowledge these contributions, and quote these license statements in an appendix to the documentation. Parts of the QCrashHandler class
Parts of the FreeType projects have been modified and put into Qt for use in the painting subsystem. These files are ftraster.h, ftraster.c, ftgrays.h and ftgrays.c. The following modifications has been made to these files:
Renamed FT_ and ft_ symbols to QT_FT_ and qt_ft_ to avoid name conflicts in qrasterdefs_p.h.
Removed parts of code not relevant when compiled with _STANDALONE_ defined.
Changed behavior in ftraster.c to follow X polygon filling rules.
Implemented support in ftraster.c for winding / odd even polygon fill rules.
Replaced bitmap generation with span generation in ftraster.c.
Renamed ftraster.h as qblackraster_p.h.
Renamed ftraster.c as qblackraster.c.
Renamed ftgrays.h as qgrayraster_p.h.
Renamed ftgrays.c as qgrayraster.c.

You may use jQuery under the terms of either the MIT License or the Gnu General Public License (GPL) Version 2. The MIT License is recommended for most projects. It is simple and easy to understand, and it places almost no restrictions on what you can do with jQuery. If the GPL suits your project better, you are also free to use jQuery under that license. You don't have to do anything special to choose one license or the other, and you don't have to notify anyone which license you are using.

Free (or open source) software is software that comes with a license that gives users certain rights. In particular the right to use the software, to modify it, to obtain its source, and to pass it on (under the same terms). Notice that the term "free" is about rights, not money. The Free Software Foundation (creators of the GNU GPL) speaks of free in this context as in "free speech", not as in "no cost".

Nokia supports the free software concept by providing the Qt Open Source Edition, which is licensed under the GNU General Public License (GPL) (version 3) and the GNU Lesser General Public License (LGPL) (version 2.1). You can use this edition of Qt to create and distribute software with licenses that are compatible to these free software licenses.

The support of open source with the Open Source Versions of Qt has enabled large successful software projects like KDE to thrive, with thousands of developers around the world using open source versions of Qt at no cost to themselves. With the release of Qt 4, open source versions of Qt became available for Unix/X11, Mac OS X, and Windows platforms.

The Open Source Edition can be downloaded from the Qt website. Please refer to the online License FAQ for answers to frequently asked questions on open source licensing and its implications. More information on Free and Open Source software is available online: GNU GPL: http://www.gnu.org/. Open Source licensing: http://www.opensource.org/. See Licensing Information for a collection of documents about licenses used in Qt.

Information about Qt Commercial License Agreements is available in the Qt Licensing Overview on the Qt website or by contacting the sales

Qt includes a number of third-party libraries that are used to provide certain features. Unlike the code described in the code used in Qt document, these libraries are supplied alongside the Qt modules. Third Party Software may impose additional restrictions and it is the user's responsibility to ensure that they have met the licensing requirements of the GPL, LGPL, or Qt Commercial license and the relevant license of the Third Party Software they are using. Run configure -help to see any options that may be available for controlling the use of these libraries.

DES (des.cpp)
Implementation of DES encryption for NTLM
Copyright 1997-2005 Simon Tatham.

This software is released under the MIT license. See src/3rdparty/des/des.cpp for more information about the terms and conditions under which the code is supplied.

FreeType 2 (freetype) version 2.3.6
The FreeType project is a team of volunteers who develop free, portable and high-quality software solutions for digital typography. We specifically target embedded systems and focus on bringing small, efficient and ubiquitous products. quoted from 3rdparty/freetype/docs/freetype2.html. See src/3rdparty/freetype/docs/FTL.txt and src/3rdparty/freetype/docs/GPL.txt for license details. See also the files in src/3rdparty/harfbuzz, which are used by FreeType.

Parts of the FreeType projects have been modified and put into Qt for use in the painting subsystem. These files are ftraster.h, ftraster.c, ftgrays.h and ftgrays.c. The following modifications has been made to these files:
Renamed FT_ and ft_ symbols to QT_FT_ and qt_ft_ to avoid name conflicts.
Removed parts of code not relevant when compiled with _STANDALONE_ defined.
Changed behavior in ftraster.c to follow X polygon filling rules.
Implemented support in ftraster.c for winding / odd even polygon fill rules.
Replaced bitmap generation with span generation in ftraster.c
Renamed: ftraster.h to qblackraster_p.h
Renamed: ftraster.c to qblackraster.c
Renamed: ftgrays.h to qgrayraster_p.h
Renamed: ftgrays.c to qgrayraster.c

HarfBuzz (harfbuzz)
This is HarfBuzz, an OpenType Layout engine. It was derived originally from the OpenType code in FreeType-1.x, ported to FreeType2. (This code has been abandoned for FreeType2, but until something better comes along, should serve our purposes.) In addition to porting to FreeType-2, it has been modified in various other ways. quoted from src/3rdparty/harfbuzz/README. See src/3rdparty/harfbuzz/COPYING.FTL and src/3rdparty/harfbuzz/COPYING.GPL for license details.

The Independent JPEG Group's JPEG Software (libjpeg) version 6b
This package contains C software to implement JPEG image compression and decompression. JPEG (pronounced "jay-peg") is a standardized compression method for full-color and gray-scale images. JPEG is intended for compressing "real-world" scenes; line drawings, cartoons and other non-realistic images are not its strong suit. JPEG is lossy, meaning that the output image is not exactly identical to the input image. quoted from src/3rdparty/libjpeg/README. See src/3rdparty/libjpeg/README for license details.

MD4 (md4.cpp and md4.h)
MD4 (RFC-1320) message digest.
Modified from MD5 code by Andrey Panin <pazke@donpac.ru> Written by Solar Designer <solar@openwall.com> in 2001, and placed in the public domain. There's absolutely no warranty. See src/3rdparty/md4/md4.cpp and src/3rdparty/md4/md4.h for more information about the terms and conditions under which the code is supplied.

Equivalent code is available from RSA Data Security, Inc. This code has been tested against that, and is equivalent, except that you don't need to include two pages of legalese with every copy.

Changed so as no longer to depend on Colin Plumb's `usual.h' header definitions; now uses stuff from dpkg's config.h.

Parts of the FreeType projects have been modified and put into Qt for use in the painting subsystem. These files are ftraster.h, ftraster.c, ftgrays.h and ftgrays.c. The following modifications has been made to these files:
Renamed FT_ and ft_ symbols to QT_FT_ and qt_ft_ to avoid name conflicts in /c{qrasterdefs_p.h}.
Removed parts of code not relevant when compiled with _STANDALONE_ defined.
Changed behavior in /c{ftraster.c} to follow X polygon filling rules.
Implemented support in /c{ftraster.c} for winding / odd even polygon fill rules.
Replaced bitmap generation with span generation in /c{ftraster.c}.
Renamed /c{ftraster.h} as /c{qblackraster_p.h}.
Renamed /c{ftraster.c} as /c{qblackraster.c}.
Renamed /c{ftgrays.h} as /c{qgrayraster_p.h}.
Renamed /c{ftgrays.c} as /c{qgrayraster.c}.

The FreeType Project LICENSE 2006-Jan-27

Copyright 1996-2002, 2006 by David Turner, Robert Wilhelm, and Werner Lemberg

Introduction
The FreeType Project is distributed in several archive packages; some of them may contain, in addition to the FreeType font engine, various tools and contributions which rely on, or relate to, the FreeType Project. This license applies to all files found in such packages, and which do not fall under their own explicit license. The license affects thus the FreeType font engine, the test programs, documentation and makefiles, at the very least. This license was inspired by the BSD, Artistic, and IJG (Independent JPEG Group) licenses, which all encourage inclusion and use of free software in commercial and freeware products alike. As a consequence, its main points are that:

o We don't promise that this software works. However, we will be interested in any kind of bug reports. (`as is' distribution)

o You can use this software for whatever you want, in parts or full form, without having to pay us. (`royalty-free' usage)

o You may not pretend that you wrote this software. If you use it, or only parts of it, in a program, you must acknowledge somewhere in your documentation that you have used the FreeType code. (`credits')

We specifically permit and encourage the inclusion of this software, with or without modifications, in commercial products. We disclaim all warranties covering The FreeType Project and assume no liability related to The FreeType Project.

Finally, many people asked us for a preferred form for a credit/disclaimer to use in compliance with this license. We thus encourage you to use the following text:

Portions of this software are copyright © <year> The FreeType Project (www.freetype.org). All rights reserved.
"""

Please replace <year> with the value from the FreeType version you actually use.

Legal Terms
0. Definitions
Throughout this license, the terms `package', `FreeType Project', and `FreeType archive' refer to the set of files originally distributed by the authors (David Turner, Robert Wilhelm, and Werner Lemberg) as the `FreeType Project', be they named as alpha, beta or final release.

`You' refers to the licensee, or person using the project, where `using' is a generic term including compiling the project's source code as well as linking it to form a `program' or `executable'. This program is referred to as `a program using the FreeType engine'.

It does not contain information for the build system, toolchain, board support packages or device drivers. This document is provided "as is" without any warranty whatsoever. This documentation may not be referenced or relied upon for its accuracy or comprehensiveness, or to determine legal obligations with respect to open source code contained in our products. Such determinations should be based upon recipient's independent legal analysis and by reference to the notices and licenses contained within the open source code itself. Wind River may change the contents of this document at any time at its sole discretion, and Wind River shall have no liability whatsoever arising from recipient's use of this information.

WIND RIVER CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION. Recipient of the following materials shall protect Discloser's Confidential Information using the same degree of care, but no less than reasonable care, to prevent the unauthorized use or dissemination of the Confidential Information.

This license applies to all files distributed in the original FreeType Project, including all source code, binaries and documentation, unless otherwise stated in the file in its original, unmodified form as distributed in the original archive. If you are unsure whether or not a particular file is covered by this license, you must contact us to verify this.

The FreeType Project is copyright (C) 1996-2000 by David Turner, Robert Wilhelm, and Werner Lemberg. All rights reserved except as specified below.

1. No Warranty

IN NO EVENT WILL ANY OF THE AUTHORS OR COPYRIGHT HOLDERS BE LIABLE FOR ANY DAMAGES CAUSED BY THE USE OR THE INABILITY TO USE, OF THE FREETYPE PROJECT.

2. Redistribution
This license grants a worldwide, royalty-free, perpetual and irrevocable right and license to use, execute, perform, compile, display, copy, create derivative works of, distribute and sublicense the FreeType Project (in both source and object code forms) and derivative works thereof for any purpose; and to authorize others to exercise some or all of the rights granted herein, subject to the following conditions:

o Redistribution of source code must retain this license file (`FTL.TXT') unaltered; any additions, deletions or changes to the original files must be clearly indicated in accompanying documentation. The copyright notices of the unaltered, original files must be preserved in all copies of source files.

o Redistribution in binary form must provide a disclaimer that states that the software is based in part of the work of the FreeType Team, in the distribution documentation. We also encourage you to put an URL to the FreeType web page in your documentation, though this isn't mandatory.

These conditions apply to any software derived from or based on the FreeType Project, not just the unmodified files. If you use our work, you must acknowledge us. However, no fee need be paid to us.

3. Advertising
Neither the FreeType authors and contributors nor you shall use the name of the other for commercial, advertising, or promotional purposes without specific prior written permission.

We suggest, but do not require, that you use one or more of the following phrases to refer to this software in your documentation or advertising materials: `FreeType Project', `FreeType Engine', `FreeType library', or `FreeType Distribution'.

As you have not signed this license, you are not required to accept it. However, as the FreeType Project is copyrighted material, only this license, or another one contracted with the authors, grants you the right to use, distribute, and modify it. Therefore, by using, distributing, or modifying the FreeType Project, you indicate that you understand and accept all the terms of this license.

4. Contacts
There are two mailing lists related to FreeType:

o freetype@nongnu.org
Discusses general use and applications of FreeType, as well as future and wanted additions to the library and distribution. If you are looking for support, start in this list if you haven't found anything to help you in the documentation.

o freetype-devel@nongnu.org
Discusses bugs, as well as engine internals, design issues, specific licenses, porting, etc.

The FreeType 2 font engine is copyrighted work and cannot be used legally without a software license. In order to make this project usable to a vast majority of developers, we distribute it under two mutually exclusive open-source licenses. This means that you must choose one of the two licenses described below, then obey all its terms and conditions when using FreeType 2 in any of your projects or products.

- The FreeType License, found in the file `FTL.TXT', which is similar to the original BSD license with an advertising clause that forces you to explicitly cite the FreeType project in your product's documentation. All details are in the license file. This license is suited to products which don't use the GNU General Public License.

- The GNU General Public License version 2, found in `GPL.TXT' (any later version can be used also), for programs which already use the GPL. Note that the FTL is incompatible with the GPL due to its advertisement clause.

The contributed PCF driver comes with a license similar to that of the X Window System. It is compatible to the above two licenses (see file src/pcf/readme).

Introduction
There are potential patent infringement issues when using either FreeType 1 or FreeType 2 in one of your applications or libraries. This page is dedicated to explain the situation by providing accurate factual evidence, debunking a few myths, and other concrete, useful information.

The Facts
The TrueType Patents
Apple Computer, Inc., owns three patents that are related to the processing of glyph outlines within TrueType fonts. This process is also called hinting or grid-fitting and is used to enhance the quality of glyphs at small bitmap sizes. The patents are as follows.

Patent 1: US5155805: Method and apparatus for moving control points in displaying digital typeface on raster output devices

Filed on May 8th, 1989, and granted on October 13th, 1992.
Also granted in Canada as CA2015518 (French alternate), filed on April 26th, 1990.
Also granted in United Kingdom as GB2232861, filed on April 27th, 1990.
Also granted in Germany as DE4014231, Verfahren zum Bearbeiten der Steuerpunkte eines Symbolbildes, filed on May 3rd, 1990.

Patent 2: US5159668: Method and apparatus for manipulating outlines in improving digital typeface on raster output devices

Filed on May, 8 1989, too. Actually, the two patents were filed concurrently. Granted on October 27th, 1992.

Also granted in France as FR2646729 Procédé et système de manipulation des esquisses d'une image de symbole dans différentes dimensions et par différents déplacements de points pour améliorer une figure de caractère numérique sur un dispositif de sortie à trame, filed on May 7th, 1990.
Also granted in Japan as JP3208094, filed on May 8th, 1990.

Patent 3: US5325479: Method and apparatus for moving control points in displaying digital typeface on raster output devices

Filed on May 28, 1992.

It is important to understand that the patents do not prevent anyone from reading, converting or generating TrueType fonts. As they only concern the subtle art of hinting TrueType glyphs, it is even possible to legally display text with TrueType fonts, as long as the patented techniques aren't used to optimize the bitmaps at small pixel sizes.

The TrueType Bytecode Interpreter
The reason why TrueType fonts can render so beautifully at small pixel sizes comes from the way glyph images are described and processed according to the TrueType specification. Each glyph image is stored in a TrueType font file as a simple scalable outline (built from line segments and quadratic Bézier arcs), to which is associated an array of bytes, called the glyph program. The glyph program really contains a series of program instructions, written for a specific virtual machine (the TrueType VM), defined in the TrueType specification.

The TrueType VM is heavily designed towards the processing of geometric shapes. For example, it contains instructions to move points, measure distances, align points to the pixel grid, etc. When a glyph needs to be rendered at a specific pixel size, its outline is loaded and scaled linearly to the current device space. Its glyph program is fed to a bytecode interpreter that executes it. The glyph program knows about the current pixel size, and adjusts the glyph outlines to the font designer's intent in order to produce the best possible bitmap – at least in theory.

What Is Patented
It is important to clarify that the patents only cover a small subset of the TrueType instructions (not the whole process of hinting glyphs with specific bytecode programs). Unfortunately, the patented bytecodes are relatively often used in high-quality glyph programs.

For example, here is a picture showing the 'Arial' font with a specific version of the FreeType bytecode interpreter that simply ignores the patented bytecodes. [image omitted] As you can see, some rather unpleasant artifacts make the font unacceptable for normal reading use.

Is FreeType 1 Affected by the Patents?
The answer is yes, for each default build of FreeType 1 (from version 1.0 to the latest 1.3.1). Since this library was written well before the 'discovery' of the Apple patents, it comes with a built-in and complete TrueType bytecode interpreter. It should thus only be used with a license from Apple. Note however that since release 1.3, it is possible to disable the bytecode interpreter entirely. The resulting glyphs are not hinted then and of poor quality, but this makes the library still useful for a number of programs like font converters.

Is FreeType 2 Affected by the Patents?
The answer is no for any recent build of FreeType 2, since it comes with an 'auto-hinting' module that was specifically designed to completely ignore the TrueType bytecode instructions.

However, the source code for the bytecode interpreter is still available and can be toggled on at compile time, for those that want to use it anyway (because they purchased a license from Apple, or because they are in a country where the patents do not apply, etc.). For details please check the documentation that comes with your FreeType source package (it normally involves changing one configuration macro). Note that some beta versions of FreeType 2 did use the bytecode interpreter (since the auto-hinter wasn't available yet).

Finally, many Linux distributions seem to distribute a patched version of FreeType 2 with the bytecode interpreter activated, unlike the sources we distribute. Of course, we can only deny any kind of responsibility in this case. It further means that in the event where you need to update the version of FreeType installed on your system from our sources, you should better manually activate the bytecode interpreter at compile time in order to prevent any loss of quality.

Myths
Myth 1: FreeType Is Not Suitable for Use in Commercial Products
FreeType is very successfully used in several commercial products. This ranges from video games, digital cameras, Java runtimes, graphics libraries, digital assistants (e.g., Psion PDAs), and much more.

Some of these products use either FreeType 1.x or 2.x with the bytecode interpreter enabled, through the payment of a license to Apple Computer, Inc. Don't forget that you have to pay this fee anyway, though indirectly, if you use any other font engine that supports native TrueType hinting (e.g., BitStream's FontFusion).

Myth 2: Apple Is Suing (or Sued) FreeType

This complete myth apparently started with this article on the SlashDot news site. Too bad the editors did neither care to check the submitted link nor even tried to contact us, we could have helped them!

It is true that we have been contacted by Apple's legal department, but that has never been in the clear intent of suing us, which isn't too surprising given that FreeType doesn't harm Apple in any way. On the contrary, because of FreeType, Apple has already seen new patent licensees in the embedded market.

Licensing
In the case where you need a patent license from Apple, please contact directly their legal department. We are unable to give you any pricing information, so please do not ask us about it.

LEGAL ISSUES
In plain English:

1. We don't promise that this software works. (But if you find any bugs, please let us know!)

2. You can use this software for whatever you want. You don't have to pay us.

3. You may not pretend that you wrote this software. If you use it in a program, you must acknowledge somewhere in your documentation that you've used the IJG code.

In legalese:
The authors make NO WARRANTY or representation, either express or implied, with respect to this software, its quality, accuracy, merchantability, or fitness for a particular purpose. This software is provided "AS IS", and you, its user, assume the entire risk as to its quality and accuracy.

This software is copyright (C) 1991-1998, Thomas G. Lane. All Rights Reserved except as specified below.

Permission is hereby granted to use, copy, modify, and distribute this software (or portions thereof) for any purpose, without fee, subject to these conditions:

© 2009-2010 Wind River Sysrtems, Inc.

This information is provided for convenience only, to provide a general overview of our base product offering in a user-friendly format. It does not contain information for the build system, toolchain, board support packages or device drivers. This document is provided "as is" without any warranty whatsoever. This documentation may not be referenced or relied upon for its accuracy or comprehensiveness, or to determine legal obligations with respect to open source code contained in our products. Such determinations should be based upon recipient's independent legal analysis and by reference to the notices and licenses contained within the open source code itself. Wind River may change the contents of this document at any time at its sole discretion, and Wind River shall have no liability whatsoever arising from recipient's use of this information.

WIND RIVER CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION. Recipient of the following materials shall protect Discloser's Confidential Information using the same degree of care, but no less than reasonable care, to prevent the unauthorized use or dissemination of the Confidential Information.

(1) If any part of the source code for this software is distributed, then this README file must be included, with this copyright and no-warranty notice unaltered; and any additions, deletions, or changes to the original files must be clearly indicated in accompanying documentation.

(2) If only executable code is distributed, then the accompanying documentation must state that "this software is based in part on the work of the Independent JPEG Group".

(3) Permission for use of this software is granted only if the user accepts full responsibility for any undesirable consequences; the authors accept NO LIABILITY for damages of any kind.

These conditions apply to any software derived from or based on the IJG code, not just to the unmodified library. If you use our work, you ought to acknowledge us.

Permission is NOT granted for the use of any IJG author's name or company name in advertising or publicity relating to this software or products derived from it. This software may be referred to only as "the Independent JPEG Group's software".

We specifically permit and encourage the use of this software as the basis of commercial products, provided that all warranty or liability claims are assumed by the product vendor.

ansi2knr.c is included in this distribution by permission of L. Peter Deutsch, sole proprietor of its copyright holder, Aladdin Enterprises of Menlo Park, CA. ansi2knr.c is NOT covered by the above copyright and conditions, but instead by the usual distribution terms of the Free Software Foundation; principally, that you must include source code if you redistribute it. (See the file ansi2knr.c for full details.) However, since ansi2knr.c is not needed as part of any program generated from the IJG code, this does not limit you more than the foregoing paragraphs do.

The Unix configuration script "configure" was produced with GNU Autoconf. It is copyright by the Free Software Foundation but is freely distributable. The same holds for its supporting scripts (config.guess, config.sub, ltconfig, ltmain.sh). Another support script, install-sh, is copyright by M.I.T. but is also freely distributable.

It appears that the arithmetic coding option of the JPEG spec is covered by patents owned by IBM, AT&T, and Mitsubishi. Hence arithmetic coding cannot legally be used without obtaining one or more licenses. For this reason, support for arithmetic coding has been removed from the free JPEG software. (Since arithmetic coding provides only a marginal gain over the unpatented Huffman mode, it is unlikely that very many implementations will support it.) So far as we are aware, there are no patent restrictions on the remaining code.

The IJG distribution formerly included code to read and write GIF files. To avoid entanglement with the Unisys LZW patent, GIF reading support has been removed altogether, and the GIF writer has been simplified to produce "uncompressed GIFs". This technique does not use the LZW algorithm; the resulting GIF files are larger than usual, but are readable by all standard GIF decoders.

We are required to state that "The Graphics Interchange Format(c) is the Copyright property of CompuServe Incorporated. GIF(sm) is a Service Mark property of CompuServe Incorporated."

This is JavaScriptCore's variant of the PCRE library. While this library started out as a copy of PCRE, many of the features of PCRE have been removed. This library now supports only the regular expression features required by the JavaScript language specification, and has only the functions needed by JavaScriptCore and the rest of WebKit.

The auto-fitter is a complete rewrite of the old auto-hinter. Its main feature is the ability to differentiate between different scripts in order to apply language-specific rules. The code has also been compartmentized into several entities that should make algorithmic experimentation easier than with the old code. Finally, we get rid of the Catharon license, since this code is released under the FreeType one.

PCRE is a library of functions to support regular expressions whose syntax and semantics are as close as possible to those of the Perl 5 language. This is JavaScriptCore's variant of the PCRE library. While this library started out as a copy of PCRE, many of the features of PCRE have been removed.

Licensing
Some of Qt's libraries are based on third party libraries that are not licensed using the same dual-license model as Qt. As a result, care must be taken when deploying applications that use these libraries, particularly when the application is statically linked to them. The following table contains an inexhaustive summary of the issues you should be aware of.

Licensing Issue
CLucene
The version of clucene distributed with Qt is licensed under the GNU LGPL version 2.1 or later. This has implications for developers of closed source applications. Please see {QtHelp ModuleLicense Information}{the QtHelp module documentation} for more information.

OpenSSL
Some configurations of QtNetwork use OpenSSL at run-time. Deployment of OpenSSL libraries is subject to both licensing and export restrictions. More information can be found in the {Secure Sockets Layer (SSL) Classes} documentation.

WebKit
WebKit is licensed under the GNU LGPL version 2 or later. This has implications for developers of closed source applications. Please see {QtWebKit ModuleLicense Information}{the QtWebKit module documentation} for more information.

Phonon
Phonon relies on the native multimedia engines on different platforms. Phonon itself is licensed under the GNU LGPL version 2. Please see {Phonon ModuleLicense Information}{the Phonon module documentation} for more information on licensing and the {Phonon OverviewBackends}{Phonon Overview} for details of the backends in use on different platforms.

event of inconsistency or conflict between the language of this Agreement and the License Certificate, the provisions of this Agreement shall govern.

4. VALIDITY OF THE AGREEMENT
By installing, copying, or otherwise using the Licensed Software, Licensee agrees to be bound by the terms of this Agreement. If Licensee does not agree to the terms of this Agreement, Licensee should not install, copy, or otherwise use the Licensed Software. In addition, by installing, copying, or otherwise using any Updates or other components of the Licensed Software that Licensee receives separately as part of the Licensed Software, Licensee agrees to be bound by any additional license terms that accompany such Updates, if any. If Licensee does not agree to the additional license terms that accompany such Updates, Licensee should not install, copy, or otherwise use such Updates. Upon Licensee's acceptance of the terms and conditions of this Agreement, Nokia grants Licensee the right to use the Licensed Software in the manner provided below.

5. LICENSES
5.1 Using, Modifying and Copying
Nokia grants to Licensee a non-exclusive, non-transferable, perpetual license to use, modify and copy the Licensed Software for Designated Users specified in the License Certificate for the sole purposes of:

5.2 Limited Redistribution
a) Nokia grants Licensee a non-exclusive, royalty-free right to reproduce and distribute the object code form of Redistributables (listed in Appendix 1, Section 1) for execution on the specified Platforms, excluding the Deployment Platforms. b) Licensee may not distribute, transfer, assign or otherwise dispose of Applications and/or Redistributables, in binary/compiled form, or in any other form, if such action is part of a joint software and hardware distribution, except as provided by a separate runtime distribution license with Nokia or one of its authorized distributors. A joint hardware and software distribution shall be defined as either:

> (i) distribution of a hardware device where, in its final end user configuration, the main user interface of the device is provided by Application(s) created by Licensee or others, using a commercial version of a Qt or Qt-based product, and depends on the Licensed Software or an open source version of any Qt or Qt-based software product; or

In the case of a material violation, Licensee agrees to pay Nokia any amounts owing that are attributable to the unauthorized use. In the alternative, Nokia reserves the right, at Nokia's sole option, to terminate the licenses for the Licensed Software.

7. THIRD PARTY SOFTWARE
The Licensed Software may provide links to third party libraries or code (collectively "Third Party Software") to implement various functions. Third Party Software does not comprise part of the Licensed Software. In some cases, access to Third Party Software may be included along with the Licensed Software delivery as a convenience for development and testing only. Such source code and libraries may be listed in the ".../src/3rdparty" source tree delivered with the Licensed Software or documented in the Licensed Software where the Third Party Software is used, as may be amended from time to time, do not comprise the Licensed Software. Except as set forth above, the Licensed Software is licensed to Licensee "as is". To the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, Nokia on behalf of itself and its suppliers, disclaims all warranties and conditions, either express or implied, including, but not limited to, implied warranties of merchantability and fitness for a particular purpose, title and non-infringement with regard to the Licensed Software.

10. LIMITATION OF LIABILITY
If, Nokia's warranty disclaimer notwithstanding, Nokia is held to be liable to Licensee whether in contract, tort, or any other legal theory, based on the Licensed Software, Nokia's entire liability to Licensee and Licensee's exclusive remedy shall be, at Nokia's option, either (a) return of the price Licensee paid for the Licensed Software, or (b) repair or replacement of the Licensed Software, provided Licensee returns to Nokia all copies of the Licensed Software as originally delivered to Licensee. Nokia shall not under any circumstances be liable to Licensee based on failure of the Licensed Software if the failure resulted from accident, abuse or misapplication, nor shall Nokia, under any circumstances, be liable for special damages, punitive or exemplary damages, damages for loss of profits or interruption of business or for loss or corruption of data. Following the Initial Term, Nokia shall no longer make the Licensed Software available to Licensee unless Licensee purchases additional Support and Updates according to this Section 11 below. Accordingly, when a party (the "Receiving Party") receives Confidential Information from another party (the "Disclosing Party"), the Receiving Party shall, and shall obligate its employees and agents and employees and agents of its affiliates to: (i) maintain the Confidential Information in strict confidence; (ii) not disclose the Confidential Information to a third party without the Disclosing Party's prior written approval; and (iii) not, directly or indirectly, use the Confidential Information for any purpose other than for exercising its rights and fulfilling its responsibilities pursuant to this Agreement. Each party shall take reasonable measures to protect the Confidential Information of the other party, which measures shall not be less than the measures taken by such party to protect its own confidential and proprietary information.

"Confidential Information" shall not include information that (a) is or becomes generally known to the public through no act or omission of the Receiving Party; (b) was in the Receiving Party's lawful possession prior to the disclosure hereunder and was not subject to limitations on disclosure or use; (c) is developed by the Receiving Party without access to the Confidential Information of the Disclosing Party or by persons who have not had access to the Confidential Information of the Disclosing Party as proven by the written records of the Receiving Party; (d) is lawfully disclosed to the Receiving Party without restrictions, by a third party not under an obligation of confidentiality; or (e) the Receiving Party is legally compelled to disclose the information, in which case the Receiving Party shall assert the privileged and confidential nature of the information and cooperate fully with the Disclosing Party to protect against and prevent disclosure of any Confidential Information and to limit the scope of disclosure and the dissemination of disclosed Confidential Information by all legally available means. The obligations of the Receiving Party under this Section shall continue during the Initial Term and for a period of five (5) years after expiration or termination of this Agreement. To the extent that the terms of the Non-Disclosure Agreement between Nokia and Licensee conflict with the terms of this Section 12, this Section 12 shall be controlling over the terms of the Non-Disclosure Agreement.

4.2. No Distribution or Modifications
Licensee may not disclose, modify, sell, market, commercialise, distribute, loan, rent, lease, or license the Licensed Software or any copy of it or use the Licensed Software for any purpose that is not expressly granted in this Section 4. Licensee may not alter or remove any details of ownership, copyright, trademark or other property right connected with the Licensed Software. Licensee may not distribute any software statically or dynamically linked with the Licensed Software.

4.3.No Technical Support
Nokia has no obligation to furnish Licensee with any technical support whatsoever. Any such support is subject to separate agreement between the Parties.

5. THIRD PARTY SOFTWARE
The Licensed Software may provide links to third party libraries or code (collectively "Third Party Software") to implement various functions. Third Party Software does not comprise part of the Licensed Software. In some cases, access to Third Party Software may be included along with the Licensed Software delivery as a convenience for development and testing only. Such source code and libraries may be listed in the ".../src/3rdparty" source tree delivered with the Licensed Software or documented in the Licensed Software where the Third Party Software is used, as may be amended from time to time, do not comprise the Licensed Software. Licensee acknowledges (1) that some part of Third Party Software may require additional licensing of copyright and patents from the owners of such, and (2) that distribution of any of the Licensed Software referencing any portion of a Third Party Software may require appropriate licensing from such third parties.

6. LIMITED WARRANTY AND WARRANTY DISCLAIMER
The Licensed Software is licensed to Licensee "as is". To the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, Nokia on behalf of itself and its suppliers, disclaims all warranties and conditions, either express or implied, including, but not limited to, implied warranties of merchantability, fitness for a particular purpose, title and non-infringement with regard to the Licensed Software.

7. LIMITATION OF LIABILITY
If, Nokia's warranty disclaimer notwithstanding, Nokia is held liable to Licensee, whether in contract, tort or any other legal theory, based on the Licensed Software, Nokia's entire liability to Licensee and Licensee's exclusive remedy shall be, at Nokia's option, either (A) return of the price Licensee paid for the Licensed Software, or (B) repair or replacement of the Licensed Software, provided Licensee returns to Nokia all copies of the Licensed Software as originally delivered to Licensee. Nokia shall not under any circumstances be liable to Licensee based on failure of the Licensed Software if the failure resulted from accident, abuse or misapplication, nor shall Nokia under any circumstances be liable for special damages, punitive or exemplary damages, damages for loss of profits or interruption of business or for loss or corruption of data. Any award of damages from Nokia to Licensee shall not exceed the total amount Licensee has paid to Nokia in connection with this Agreement.

8. CONFIDENTIALITY
Each party acknowledges that during the Term of this Agreement it shall have access to information about the other party's business, business methods, business plans, customers, business relations, technology, and other information, including the terms of this Agreement, that is confidential and of great value to the other party, and the value of which would be significantly reduced if disclosed to third parties (the "Confidential Information"). Accordingly, when a party (the "Receiving Party") receives Confidential Information from another party (the "Disclosing Party"), the Receiving Party shall, and shall obligate its employees and agents and employees and agents of its Affiliates to: (i) maintain the Confidential Information in strict confidence; (ii) not disclose the Confidential Information to a third party without the Disclosing Party's prior written approval; and (iii) not, directly or indirectly, use the Confidential Information for any purpose other than for exercising its rights and fulfilling its responsibilities pursuant to this Agreement. Each party shall take reasonable measures to protect the Confidential Information of the other party, which measures shall not be less than the measures taken by such party to protect its own confidential and proprietary information.

"Confidential Information" shall not include information that (a) is or becomes generally known to the public through no act or omission of the Receiving Party; (b) was in the Receiving Party's lawful possession prior to the disclosure hereunder and was not subject to limitations on disclosure or use; (c) is developed by the Receiving Party without access to the Confidential Information of the Disclosing Party or by persons who have not had access to the Confidential Information of the Disclosing Party as proven by the written records of the Receiving Party; (d) is lawfully disclosed to the Receiving Party without restrictions, by a third party not under an obligation of confidentiality; or (e) the Receiving Party is legally compelled to disclose the information, in which case the Receiving Party shall assert the privileged and confidential nature of the information and cooperate fully with the Disclosing Party to protect against and prevent disclosure of any Confidential Information and to limit the scope of disclosure and the dissemination of disclosed Confidential Information by all legally available means. The obligations of the Receiving Party under this Section shall continue during the Initial Term and for a period of five (5) years after expiration or termination of this Agreement. To the extent that the terms of the Non-Disclosure Agreement between Nokia and Licensee conflict with the terms of this Section 8, this Section 8 shall be controlling over the terms of the Non-Disclosure Agreement.

9. GENERAL PROVISIONS
9.1.No Assignment
Licensee shall not be entitled to assign or transfer all or any of its rights, benefits and obligations under this Agreement without the prior written consent of Nokia, which shall not be unreasonably withheld.

9.2.Termination

It does not contain information for the build system, toolchain, board support packages or device drivers. This document is provided "as is" without any warranty whatsoever. This documentation may not be referenced or relied upon for its accuracy or comprehensiveness, or to determine legal obligations with respect to open source code contained in our products. Such determinations should be based upon recipient's independent legal analysis and by reference to the notices and licenses contained within the open source code itself. Wind River may change the contents of this document at any time at its sole discretion, and Wind River shall have no liability whatsoever arising from recipient's use of this information.

WIND RIVER CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION. Recipient of the following materials shall protect Discloser's Confidential Information using the same degree of care, but no less than reasonable care, to prevent the unauthorized use or dissemination of the Confidential Information.

Nokia may terminate the Agreement at any time immediately upon written notice by Nokia to Licensee if Licensee breaches this Agreement. Upon termination of this Agreement, Licensee shall return to Nokia all copies of Licensed Software that were supplied by Nokia. All other copies of Licensed Software in the possession or control of Licensee must be erased or destroyed. An officer of Licensee must promptly deliver to Nokia a written confirmation that this has occurred.

9.3.Surviving Sections
Any terms and conditions that by their nature or otherwise reasonably should survive a cancellation or termination of this Agreement shall also be deemed to survive. Such terms and conditions include, but are not limited to the following Sections: 2, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9.2, 9.3, 9.4, 9.5, 9.6, 9.7, and 9.8 of this Agreement.

9.4.Entire Agreement
This Agreement constitutes the complete agreement between the parties and supersedes all prior or contemporaneous discussions, representations, and proposals, written or oral, with respect to the subject matters discussed herein, with the exception of the non-disclosure agreement executed by the parties in connection with this Agreement ("Non-Disclosure Agreement"), if any, shall be subject to Section 8. No modification of this Agreement shall be effective unless contained in a writing executed by an authorized representative of each party. No term or condition contained in Licensee's purchase order shall apply unless expressly accepted by Nokia in writing. If any provision of the Agreement is found void or unenforceable, the remainder shall remain valid and enforceable according to its terms. If any remedy provided is determined to have failed for its essential purpose, all limitations of liability and exclusions of damages set forth in this Agreement shall remain in effect.

9.5.Export Control
Licensee acknowledges that the Licensed Software may be subject to export control restrictions of various countries. Licensee shall fully comply with all applicable export license restrictions and requirements as well as with all laws and regulations relating to the importation of the Licensed Software and shall procure all necessary governmental authorizations, including without limitation, all necessary licenses, approvals, permissions or consents, where necessary for the re-exportation of the Licensed Software.

9.6.Governing Law and Legal Venue
This Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the federal laws of the United States of America and the internal laws of the State of New York without given effect to any choice of law rule that would result in the application of the laws of any other jurisdiction. The United Nations Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods (CISG) shall not apply. Each Party (a) hereby irrevocably submits itself to and consents to the jurisdiction of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York (or if such court lacks jurisdiction, the state courts of the State of New York) for the purposes of any action, claim, suit or proceeding between the Parties in connection with any controversy, claim, or dispute arising out of or relating to this Agreement; and (b) hereby waives, and agrees not to assert by way of motion, as a defense or otherwise, in any such action, claim, suit or proceeding, any claim that is not personally subject to the jurisdiction of such court(s), that the action, claim, suit or proceeding is brought in an inconvenient forum or that the venue of the action, claim, suit or proceeding is improper. Notwithstanding the foregoing, nothing in this Section 9.6 is intended to, or shall be deemed to, constitute a submission or consent to, or selection of, jurisdiction, forum or venue for any action for patent infringement, whether or not such action relates to this Agreement.

9.7.No Implied License
There are no implied licenses or other implied rights granted under this Agreement, and all rights, save for those expressly granted hereunder, shall remain with Nokia and its licensors. In addition, no licenses or immunities are granted to the combination of the Licensed Software with any other software or hardware not delivered by Nokia under this Agreement.

9.8.Government End Users
A "U.S. Government End User" shall mean any agency or entity of the government of the United States. The following shall apply if Licensee is a U.S. Government End User. The Licensed Software is a "commercial item," as that term is defined in 48 C.F.R. 2.101 (Oct. 1995), consisting of "commercial computer software" and "commercial computer software documentation," as such terms are used in 48 C.F.R. 12.212 (Sept. 1995). Consistent with 48 C.F.R. 12.212 and 48 C.F.R. 227.7202-1 through 227.7202-4 (June 1995), all U.S. Government End Users acquire the Licensed Software with only those rights set forth herein. The Contributing Authors and Group 42, Inc. specifically permit, without fee, and encourage the use of this source code as a component to supporting the PNG file format in commercial products. If you use this source code in a product, acknowledgment is not required but would be appreciated.

A "png_get_copyright" function is available, for convenient use in "about" boxes and the like:

The FreeType 2 font engine is copyrighted work and cannot be used legally without a software license. In order to make this project usable to a vast majority of developers, we distribute it under two mutually exclusive open-source licenses. This means that you must choose one of the two licenses described below, then obey all its terms and conditions when using FreeType 2 in any of your projects or products.

- The FreeType License, found in the file `FTL.TXT', which is similar to the original BSD license with an advertising clause that forces you to explicitly cite the FreeType project in your product's documentation. All details are in the license file. This license is suited to products which don't use the GNU General Public License.

- The GNU General Public License version 2, found in `GPL.TXT' (any later version can be used also), for programs which already use the GPL. Note that the FTL is incompatible with the GPL due to its advertisement clause.

The contributed PCF driver comes with a license similar to that of the X Window System. It is compatible to the above two licenses (see file src/pcf/readme).

Copyright 1996-2002 by David Turner, Robert Wilhelm, and Werner Lemberg

Introduction - The FreeType Project is distributed in several archive packages; some of them may contain, in addition to the FreeType font engine, various tools and contributions which rely on, or relate to, the FreeType Project. This license applies to all files found in such packages, and which do not fall under their own explicit license. The license affects thus the FreeType font engine, the test programs, documentation and makefiles, at the very least. This license was inspired by the BSD, Artistic, and IJG (Independent JPEG Group) licenses, which all encourage inclusion and use of free software in commercial and freeware products alike. As a consequence, its main points are that:

o We don't promise that this software works. However, we will be interested in any kind of bug reports. (`as is' distribution)

o You may not pretend that you wrote this software. If you use it, or only parts of it, in a program, you must acknowledge somewhere in your documentation that you have used the FreeType code. (`credits')

We specifically permit and encourage the inclusion of this software, with or without modifications, in commercial products. We disclaim all warranties covering The FreeType Project and assume no liability related to The FreeType Project. Finally, many people asked us for a preferred form for a credit/disclaimer to use in compliance with this license. We thus encourage you to use the following text:

Portions of this software are copyright © 1996-2002 The FreeType Project (www.freetype.org). All rights reserved.
"""

Legal Terms
0. Definitions
Throughout this license, the terms `package', `FreeType Project', and `FreeType archive' refer to the set of files originally distributed by the authors (David Turner, Robert Wilhelm, and Werner Lemberg) as the `FreeType Project', be they named as alpha, beta or final release.

`You' refers to the licensee, or person using the project, where `using' is a generic term including compiling the project's source code as well as linking it to form a `program' or `executable'. This program is referred to as `a program using the FreeType engine'. This license applies to all files distributed in the original FreeType Project, including all source code, binaries and documentation, unless otherwise stated in the file in its original, unmodified form as distributed in the original archive. If you are unsure whether or not a particular file is covered by this license, you must contact us to verify this. The FreeType Project is copyright (C) 1996-2000 by David Turner, Robert Wilhelm, and Werner Lemberg. All rights reserved except as specified below.

1. No Warranty

2. Redistribution
This license grants a worldwide, royalty-free, perpetual and irrevocable right and license to use, execute, perform, compile, display, copy, create derivative works of, distribute and sublicense the FreeType Project (in both source and object code forms) and derivative works thereof for any purpose; and to authorize others to exercise some or all of the rights granted herein, subject to the following conditions:

o Redistribution of source code must retain this license file (`FTL.TXT') unaltered; any additions, deletions or changes to the original files must be clearly indicated in accompanying documentation. The copyright notices of the unaltered, original files must be preserved in all copies of source files.

o Redistribution in binary form must provide a disclaimer that states that the software is based in part of the work of the FreeType Team, in the distribution documentation. We also encourage you to put an URL to the FreeType web page in your documentation, though this isn't mandatory. These conditions apply to any software derived from or based on the FreeType Project, not just the unmodified files. If you use our work, you must acknowledge us. However, no fee need be paid to us.

3. Advertising
Neither the FreeType authors and contributors nor you shall use the name of the other for commercial, advertising, or promotional purposes without specific prior written permission. We suggest, but do not require, that you use one or more of the following phrases to refer to this software in your documentation or advertising materials: `FreeType Project', `FreeType Engine', `FreeType library', or `FreeType Distribution'. As you have not signed this license, you are not required to accept it. However, as the FreeType Project is copyrighted material, only this license, or another one contracted with the authors, grants you the right to use, distribute, and modify it. Therefore, by using, distributing, or modifying the FreeType Project, you indicate that you understand and accept all the terms of this license.

4. Contacts
There are two mailing lists related to FreeType:

o freetype@freetype.org
Discusses general use and applications of FreeType, as well as future and wanted additions to the library and distribution. If you are looking for support, start in this list if you haven't found anything to help you in the documentation.

o devel@freetype.org
Discusses bugs, as well as engine internals, design issues, specific licenses, porting, etc.

o http://www.freetype.org
Holds the current FreeType web page, which will allow you to download our latest development version and read online documentation. You can also contact us individually at:

David Turner <david.turner@freetype.org>, Robert Wilhelm <robert.wilhelm@freetype.org>, Werner Lemberg <werner.lemberg@freetype.org>

Licenses for Code Used in Qt

Qt contains a little code that is not under the QPL, the GPL, or the Qt Commercial License Agreement, but rather under specific highly permissive licenses from the original authors. This page lists the licenses used for that code, names the authors, and links to the points where it is used. Trolltech gratefully acknowledges these and others contribution to Qt. We recommend that all programs that use Qt also acknowledge these contributions, and quote all these license statements in an appendix to the documentation.

TrueType font support. These functions allow PPR to generate PostScript fonts from Microsoft compatible TrueType font files. The functions in this file do most of the work to convert a TrueType font to a type 3 PostScript font. Most of the material in this file is derived from a program called "ttf2ps" which L. S. Qt supports GIF reading if it is configured that way during installation (see qgif.h). If it is, we are required to state that "The Graphics Interchange Format(c) is the Copyright property of CompuServe Incorporated. GIF(sm) is a Service Mark property of CompuServe Incorporated."

Warning: If you are in a country that recognizes software patents and in which Unisys holds a patent on LZW compression and/or decompression and you want to use GIF, Unisys may require you to license that technology. Such countries include Canada, Japan, the USA, France, Germany, Italy and the UK. GIF support may be removed completely in a future version of Qt. We recommend using the MNG or PNG format.

This distribution contains the sixth public release of the Independent JPEG Group's free JPEG software. You are welcome to redistribute this software and to use it for any purpose, subject to the conditions under LEGAL ISSUES, below.

Serious users of this software (particularly those incorporating it into larger programs) should contact IJG at jpeg-info@uunet.uu.net to be added to our electronic mailing list. Mailing list members are notified of updates and have a chance to participate in technical discussions, etc.

This software is the work of Tom Lane, Philip Gladstone, Jim Boucher, Lee Crocker, Julian Minguillon, Luis Ortiz, George Phillips, Davide Rossi, Guido Vollbeding, Ge' Weijers, and other members of the Independent JPEG Group. IJG is not affiliated with the official ISO JPEG standards committee.

Overview
We welcome the use of this software as a component of commercial products. No royalty is required, but we do ask for an acknowledgement in product documentation, as described under LEGAL ISSUES.

© 2009-2010 Wind River Sysrtems, Inc.

This information is provided for convenience only, to provide a general overview of our base product offering in a user-friendly format. It does not contain information for the build system, toolchain, board support packages or device drivers. This document is provided "as is" without any warranty whatsoever. This documentation may not be referenced or relied upon for its accuracy or comprehensiveness, or to determine legal obligations with respect to open source code contained in our products. Such determinations should be based upon recipient's independent legal analysis and by reference to the notices and licenses contained within the open source code itself. Wind River may change the contents of this document at any time at its sole discretion, and Wind River shall have no liability whatsoever arising from recipient's use of this information.

WIND RIVER CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION. Recipient of the following materials shall protect Discloser's Confidential Information using the same degree of care, but no less than reasonable care, to prevent the unauthorized use or dissemination of the Confidential Information.

LEGAL ISSUES
In plain English:

1. We don't promise that this software works. (But if you find any bugs, please let us know!)

2. You can use this software for whatever you want. You don't have to pay us.

3. You may not pretend that you wrote this software. If you use it in a program, you must acknowledge somewhere in your documentation that you've used the IJG code.

In legalese:
The authors make NO WARRANTY or representation, either express or implied, with respect to this software, its quality, accuracy, merchantability, or fitness for a particular purpose. This software is provided "AS IS", and you, its user, assume the entire risk as to its quality and accuracy.

This software is copyright (C) 1991-1998, Thomas G. Lane. All Rights Reserved except as specified below.

Permission is hereby granted to use, copy, modify, and distribute this software (or portions thereof) for any purpose, without fee, subject to these conditions:

(1) If any part of the source code for this software is distributed, then this README file must be included, with this copyright and no-warranty notice unaltered; and any additions, deletions, or changes to the original files must be clearly indicated in accompanying documentation.

(2) If only executable code is distributed, then the accompanying documentation must state that "this software is based in part on the work of the Independent JPEG Group".

(3) Permission for use of this software is granted only if the user accepts full responsibility for any undesirable consequences; the authors accept NO LIABILITY for damages of any kind. These conditions apply to any software derived from or based on the IJG code, not just to the unmodified library. If you use our work, you ought to acknowledge us.

Permission is NOT granted for the use of any IJG author's name or company name in advertising or publicity relating to this software or products derived from it. This software may be referred to only as "the Independent JPEG Group's software".

We specifically permit and encourage the use of this software as the basis of commercial products, provided that all warranty or liability claims are assumed by the product vendor.

ansi2knr.c is included in this distribution by permission of L. Peter Deutsch, sole proprietor of its copyright holder, Aladdin Enterprises of Menlo Park, CA. ansi2knr.c is NOT covered by the above copyright and conditions, but instead by the usual distribution terms of the Free Software Foundation; principally, that you must include source code if you redistribute it. (See the file ansi2knr.c for full details.) However, since ansi2knr.c is not needed as part of any program generated from the IJG code, this does not limit you more than the foregoing paragraphs do.

The Unix configuration script "configure" was produced with GNU Autoconf. It is copyright by the Free Software Foundation but is freely distributable. The same holds for its supporting scripts (config.guess, config.sub, ltconfig, ltmain.sh). Another support script, install-sh, is copyright by M.I.T. but is also freely distributable.

It appears that the arithmetic coding option of the JPEG spec is covered by patents owned by IBM, AT&T, and Mitsubishi. Hence arithmetic coding cannot legally be used without obtaining one or more licenses. For this reason, support for arithmetic coding has been removed from the free JPEG software. (Since arithmetic coding provides only a marginal gain over the unpatented Huffman mode, it is unlikely that very many implementations will support it.)

So far as we are aware, there are no patent restrictions on the remaining code. The IJG distribution formerly included code to read and write GIF files. To avoid entanglement with the Unisys LZW patent, GIF reading support has been removed altogether, and the GIF writer has been simplified to produce "uncompressed GIFs". This technique does not use the LZW algorithm; the resulting GIF files are larger than usual, but are readable by all standard GIF decoders.

We are required to state that "The Graphics Interchange Format(c) is the Copyright property of CompuServe Incorporated. GIF(sm) is a Service Mark property of CompuServe Incorporated."

Questions about Professional Licensing
We have purchased a license, but the developer is leaving the company project. Can we transfer the license to another developer?
Yes. Qt licences are for the individual use of named developers. If the developer associated with a licence leaves the organization, or moves on to another project that does not require a Qt license, another developer can take over the licence. You can change the name of the developer using a licence at any time, but after a change you must wait at least six (6) months before changing again.

Can I purchase floating licenses for Qt?
No, we do not offer floating licenses. The reason is this: Floating licenses are based on the concept of defining a maximum number of concurrent users. For example, for a word processor, this means the maximum number of instances of that application that can be running at any time. However, for a library product like Qt, there is no main application that is always running when the product is being used. Hence, it is not possible to count the number of concurrent users, and therefore floating licenses do not make sense.

Can we use the Open Source Edition while developing our non-free application and then purchase commercial licenses when we start to sell it?
No: our commercial license agreements only apply to software that was developed with Qt under the agreement. They do not apply to code that was developed with the Qt Open Source Edition prior to the agreement. Any software developed with Qt without a commercial license agreement must be released as free/open source software.

Questions about Open Source Software Licensing
I just want to run KDE and other Qt-based software on my machine. Can I do that with the Open Source Edition?
Yes. You may use the Qt Open Source Edition for running applications, both at home and at work, without restrictions.

I want to put Qt, and applications that use it, on a CD-ROM or on a web site. Can I do that with the Open Source Edition?
Yes. You may copy and redistribute the Qt Open Source Edition, both at home and at work, without restrictions.

Can I make software with the Qt Open Source Edition and release it under the GNU GPL, BSD, or Artistic license?
Yes. The GNU GPL, GPL-compatible licenses, or any other approved open source license will do. The FSF.org and OpenSource.org web sites list approved software licenses.

I don't want to give away my source code. What do I do?
You need to buy a commercial Qt license.

Is software based on the Qt Open Source Edition really free? Does it carry any Trolltech-specific license restrictions?
Yes, it really is free. This is because the Qt Open Source Edition uses the GNU GPL, which forbids the imposition of any license restrictions on software based on the Open Source Edition that would make it non-free. And no, there are no Trolltech-specific license restrictions on software produced using the Open Source Edition.

What if Trolltech stops releasing Open Source Editions of Qt?
We have absolutely no intention of doing that. Together with the K Desktop Environment project, we have set up the KDE Free Qt Foundation (see http://www.kde.org/whatiskde/kdefreeqtfoundation.php) to legally guarantee the availability of Qt for free software development now and forever - even if circumstances beyound our control prevent us from producing new free editions.

Using the Open Source Edition, can I make non-free software for internal use in my company/organization?
No. Software developed with the Open Source Edition is always free software, i.e. it can only be distributed under a free software license. In particular, all the source code for all the modules your software is based on, regardless of whether they have been written by you or by others, must be free software. This is part of our commitment to the free software community, and enables those who contribute to the free software pool to do so without paying license fees. Although it is possible to write free software for internal use, it is difficult to ensure that such software is used and distributed legally. For example, if your free software requires any modules that impose conditions on you that contradict the conditions of the GNU GPL, including, but not limited to, software patents, commercial license agreements, copyrighted interface definitions or any sort of non-disclosure agreement, then you cannot distribute it at all; hence it cannot be given to consultants, employees for their personal computers, subsidiaries, other divisions, or even to new owners. Consequently we recommend using commercial licenses for all internal software development.

Is Qt Open Source Edition really free software in the GNU meaning of the word?
Yes - it is free software both as in "no cost" and as in "free speech". Even more, it is actually available under the terms of the GNU GPL. This means you can link GPL'ed software to it, and you can take code from Qt and put it into other GPL'ed software.

If the Open Source Edition is GNU GPL, aren't there license conflicts with incompatible open source licenses? How come people can even run commercial software like the Opera web browser with it?
If the Open Source Edition was licensed purely under the GNU GPL, there would be problems. However, as long as Qt-based software is either open source or was developed under a commercial license agreement with Trolltech, we grant permission to compile, link and run those programs with the Open Source Edition. This is written down in our second free software license, the QPL.

Doesn't such an en extra license in addition to the GNU GPL violate the terms of the GPL or at least make the whole package GPL-incompatible?
No, because those extra license terms give you rights in addition to those of the GNU GPL, including the right to remove those extra terms.

Why is Qt Open Source Edition not distributed under the GNU Lesser General Public License (LGPL)?
The LGPL is designed to "permit developers of non-free programs to use free libraries" (quote from the LGPL). In other words, if Qt Open Source Edition were LGPL'd, companies would not have to purchase our commercial editions in order to make commercial/proprietary software, they could just use the Open Source Edition, free of charge. That would mean Trolltech would not get the revenue necessary for improving and extending Qt. Note also that the Free Software Foundation discourages the use of the LGPL.

The "printf" code that follows dates from the 1980's. It is in the public domain. The original comments are included here for completeness. They are very out-of-date but might be useful as an historical reference. Most of the "enhancements" have been backed out so that the functionality is now the same as standard printf().

radvd 1.6-1

Software: radvd
Version: 1.6-1
File or Package: radvd-1.6-1.fc14.src.rpm
OSI Licenses: GPLv2+ w/exception, BSDv1 (non-UCB, variant), MIT/X11, Academic Other Licenses: Custom
URL: http://mirrors.cat.pdx.edu/fedora/linux/development/source/SRPMS/radvd-1.6-1.fc14.src.rpm
Group: User Space Apps / System Environment/Daemons
Description: radvd is the router advertisement daemon for IPv6. It listens to router solicitations and sends router advertisements as described in "Neighbor Discovery for IP Version 6 (IPv6)" (RFC 2461). With these advertisements hosts can automatically configure their addresses and some other parameters. They also can choose a default router based on these advertisements. Install radvd if you are setting up IPv6 network and/or Mobile IPv6 services.

The router advertisement daemon (radvd) is run by Linux or BSD systems acting as IPv6 routers. It sends Router Advertisement messages, specified by RFC 2461, to a local Ethernet LAN periodically and when requested by a node sending a Router Solicitation message. These messages are required for IPv6 stateless autoconfiguration. This daemon listens to router solicitations (RS) and answers with router advertisement (RA). Furthermore unsolicited RAs are also send from time to time. These RAs contain information, which is used by hosts to configure their interfaces. This information includes address prefixes, the MTU of the link and information about default routers.

Of course the routers can't autoconfigure themself, so the information on the routers has to be provided by the administrator of the system. This is done by manually configuring the interfaces and routes and by configuring the router advertisement daemon. radvd, the Router Advertisement Daemon, is an open-source software product that implements link-local advertisements of IPv6 router addresses and IPv6 routing prefixes using the Neighbor Discovery Protocol (NDP) as specified in RFC 2461.[2]

The Router Advertisement Daemon is used by system administrators in stateless autoconfiguration methods of network hosts on Internet Protocol version 6 networks. When IPv6 hosts configure their network interfaces, they broadcast router solicitation (RS) requests onto the network to discover available routers. The radvd software answers requests with router advertisement (RA) messages. In addition, radvd periodically broadcasts RA packets to the attached link to update network hosts. The router advertisement messages contain the routing prefix used on the link, the link Maximum Transmission Unit (MTU), and the address of the responsible default routers.

Description:	RPM Package Manager is a package management system. The name RPM refers to two things: a software package file format, and software packaged in this format. RPM was intended primarily for GNU/Linux distributions; the file format RPM is the baseline package format of the Linux Standard Base. Originally developed by Red Hat for Red Hat Linux, RPM is now used by many GNU/Linux distributions.

PCRE LICENCE - PCRE is a library of functions to support regular expressions whose syntax and semantics are as close as possible to those of the Perl 5 language. Release 7 of PCRE is distributed under the terms of the "BSD" licence, as specified below. The documentation for PCRE, supplied in the "doc" directory, is distributed under the same terms as the software itself. The basic library functions are written in C and are freestanding. Also included in the distribution is a set of C++ wrapper functions.

This software is subject to either of two licenses (BSD or D&R), which you can choose from in your use of the code. The terms for each of these licenses is listed below:

BSD License
Permission is hereby granted, free of charge, to any person obtaining a copy of this software and associated documentation files (the "Software"), to deal in the Software without restriction, including without limitation the rights to use, copy, modify, merge, publish, distribute, sublicense, and/or sell copies of the Software, and to permit persons to whom the Software is furnished to do so, subject to the following conditions: The above copyright notice and this permission notice shall be included in all copies or substantial portions of the Software.

THE SOFTWARE IS PROVIDED "AS IS", WITHOUT WARRANTY OF ANY KIND, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO THE WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY, FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE AND NONINFRINGEMENT.

IN NO EVENT SHALL THE AUTHORS BE LIABLE FOR ANY CLAIM, DAMAGES OR OTHER LIABILITY, WHETHER IN AN ACTION OF CONTRACT, TORT OR OTHERWISE, ARISING FROM, OUT OF OR IN CONNECTION WITH THE SOFTWARE OR THE USE OR OTHER DEALINGS IN THE SOFTWARE.

D&R (Death and Repudiation) License
This software may not be used directly by any living being. ANY use of this software (even perfectly legitimate and non-commercial uses) until after death is explicitly restricted. Any living being using (or attempting to use) this software will be punished to the fullest extent of the law.

For your protection, corpses will not be punished. We respectfully request that you submit your uses (revisions, uses, distributions, uses, etc.) to your children, who may vicariously perform these uses on your behalf. If you use this software and you are found to be not dead, you will be punished to the fullest extent of the law. If you are found to be a ghost or angel, you will be punished to the fullest extent of the law.

After your following the terms of this license, the author has vowed to repudiate your claim, meaning that the validity of this contract will no longer be recognized. This license will be unexpectedly revoked (at a time which is designated to be most inconvenient) and involved heirs will be punished to the fullest extent of the law.

Furthermore, if any parties (related or non-related) escape the punishments outlined herein, they will be severely punished to the fullest extent of a new revised law that (1) expands the statement "fullest extent of the law" to encompass an infinite duration of infinite punishments and (2) exacts said punishments upon all parties (related or non-related).

From:
rpm-5.1.9/rpm-5.1.9/xz/copying
XZ Utils Licensing - Different licenses apply to different files in this package. Here is a rough summary of which licenses apply to which parts of this package:

- liblzma is in the public domain.
- xz, xzdec, and lzmadec command line tools are in the public domain unless GNU getopt_long had to be compiled and linked in from the lib directory. The getopt_long code is under GNU LGPLv2.1+.
- The scripts to grep, diff, and view compressed files have been adapted from gzip. These scripts are under GNU GPLv2+.
- Documentation is in the public domain.
- Translated messages are in the public domain.
- The build system contains public domain files, and files that are under GNU GPLv2+ or GNU GPLv3+.
- Test files, test code, and debugging utilities are in the public domain.

You can do whatever you want with the files that have been put into the public domain. If you find public domain legally problematic, take the previous sentence as a license grant. If you still find the lack of copyright legally problematic, you have too many lawyers. As usual, this software is provided "as is", without any warranty.

The following license texts are included in the following files:
- COPYING.LGPLv2.1: GNU Lesser General Public License version 2.1
- COPYING.GPLv2: GNU General Public License version 2
- COPYING.GPLv3: GNU General Public License version 3

Note that the toolchain (compiler, linker etc.) may add some code pieces that are copyrighted. Thus, it is possible that e.g. liblzma binary wouldn't actually be in the public domain in its entirety even though it contains no copyrighted code from this package. If you have questions, don't hesitate to ask the author(s) for more information.

Although <BerkeleyDB> is covered by the Perl license, the library it makes use of, namely Berkeley DB, is not. Berkeley DB has its own copyright and its own license. Please take the time to read it. Here are few words taken from the Berkeley DB FAQ (at <http://www.oracle.com/technology/products/berkeley-db/db/index.html>) regarding the license:

Do I have to license DB to use it in Perl scripts?
No. The Berkeley DB license requires that software that uses Berkeley DB be freely redistributable. In the case of Perl, that software is Perl, and not your scripts. Any Perl scripts that you write are your property, including scripts that make use of Berkeley DB. Neither the Perl license nor the Berkeley DB license place any restriction on what you may do

A. HISTORY OF THE SOFTWARE

The Python library for YAML was started by Steve Howell in February 2002. Steve is the primary author of the project, but others have contributed. See the README for more on the project. The term "PyYaml" refers to the entire distribution of this library, including examples, documentation, and test files, as well as the core implementation.

This library is intended for general use, and the license below protects the "open source" nature of the library. The license does, however, allow for use of the library in commercial applications as well, subject to the terms and conditions listed. The license below is a minor rewrite of the Python 2.2 license, with no substantive differences.

B. TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR ACCESSING OR OTHERWISE USING PyYaml
LICENSE AGREEMENT FOR PyYaml
1. This LICENSE AGREEMENT is between Stephen S. Howell ("Author"), and the Individual or Organization ("Licensee") accessing and otherwise using PyYaml software in source or binary form and its associated documentation.

2. Subject to the terms and conditions of this License Agreement, Author hereby grants Licensee a nonexclusive, royalty-free, world-wide license to reproduce, analyze, test, perform and/or display publicly, prepare derivative works, distribute, and otherwise use PyYaml alone or in any derivative version, provided, however, that Author's License Agreement and Author's notice of copyright, i.e., "Copyright (c) 2001 Steve Howell and Friends; All Rights Reserved" are never removed from PyYaml, and are included in any derivative version prepared by Licensee.

3. In the event Licensee prepares a derivative work that is based on or incorporates PyYaml or any part thereof, and wants to make the derivative work available to others as provided herein, then Licensee hereby agrees to include in any such work a brief summary of the changes made to PyYaml.

4. Author is making PyYaml available to Licensee on an "AS IS" basis. Author MAKES NO REPRESENTATIONS OR WARRANTIES, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED. BY WAY OF EXAMPLE, BUT NOT LIMITATION, Author MAKES NO AND DISCLAIMS ANY REPRESENTATION OR WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY OR FITNESS FOR ANY PARTICULAR PURPOSE OR THAT THE USE OF PyYaml WILL NOT INFRINGE ANY THIRD PARTY RIGHTS.

5. Author SHALL NOT BE LIABLE TO LICENSEE OR ANY OTHER USERS OF PYTHON 2.2 FOR ANY INCIDENTAL, SPECIAL, OR CONSEQUENTIAL DAMAGES OR LOSS AS A RESULT OF MODIFYING, DISTRIBUTING, OR OTHERWISE USING PYTHON 2.2, OR ANY DERIVATIVE THEREOF, EVEN IF ADVISED OF THE POSSIBILITY THEREOF.

6. This License Agreement will automatically terminate upon a material breach of its terms and conditions.

7. Nothing in this License Agreement shall be deemed to create any relationship of agency, partnership, or joint venture between Author and Licensee. This License Agreement does not grant permission to use Author trademarks or trade name in a trademark sense to endorse or promote products or services of Licensee, or any third party.

8. By copying, installing or otherwise using PyYaml, Licensee agrees to be bound by the terms and conditions of this License Agreement.

RPM (and it's source code) is covered under two separate licenses. The entire code base may be distributed under the terms of the GNU General Public License (GPL), which appears immediately below. Alternatively, all of the source code in the lib subdirectory of the RPM source code distribution as well as any code derived from that code may instead be distributed under the GNU Library General Public License (LGPL), at the choice of the distributor. The complete text of the LGPL appears at the bottom of this file. This alternative is allowed to enable applications to be linked against the RPM library (commonly called librpm) without forcing such applications to be distributed under the GPL. Any questions regarding the licensing of RPM should be addressed to Erik Troan <ewt@redhat.com>.

Description:	Ruby is the interpreted scripting language for quick and easy object-oriented programming. It has many features to process text files and to do system management tasks (as in Perl). It is simple, straightforward, and extensible. Ruby is a dynamic, reflective, general purpose object-oriented programming language that combines syntax inspired by Perl with Smalltalk-like features. It is based on Perl, Smalltalk, Eiffel, Ada, and Lisp. Ruby supports multiple programming paradigms, including functional, object oriented, imperative and reflective. It also has a dynamic type system and automatic memory management; it is therefore similar in varying respects to Python, Perl, Lisp, Dylan, and CLU.

Incorporated code -
(i) Support for the TIGER cryptographic checksum algorithm is provided by the reference implementation, which includes the following statement:

Tiger: A Fast New Hash Function
Ross Anderson and Eli Biham

Tiger has no usage restrictions nor patents. It can be used freely, with the reference implementation, with other implementations or with a modification to the reference implementation (as long as it still implements Tiger). We only ask you to let us know about your implementation and to cite the origin of Tiger and of the reference implementation.

The authors' home pages can be found both in http://www.cs.technion.ac.il/~biham/ and in http://www.cl.cam.ac.uk/users/rja14/. The authors' email addresses are biham@cs.technion.ac.il and rja14@cl.cam.ac.uk.

(ii) Support for testing write access by untrusted users to any element in the path of a file is provided by the public domain trustfile library, which includes the following statement:

Author information:
Matt Bishop
Department of Computer Science
University of California at Davis
Davis, CA 95616-8562
phone (916) 752-8060
email bishop@cs.ucdavis.edu

This code is placed in the public domain. I do ask that you keep my name associated with it, that you not represent it as written by you, and that you preserve these comments. This software is provided "as is" and without any guarantees of any sort.

(iii) Support for big integer arithmetic is provided by the bignum package (v. 1.2) by Henrik.Johansson@Nexus.Comm.SE, which includes the following statement:

Everyone is allowed to distribute this package to anyone else, as long as all changes are recorded and mentioned. If you are including this in a commercial product, be sure to distribute _all_ of the package with the product.

(...writing more stuff here later, but I guess everyone knows the approximate contents of it - no warranty, no charge, and so on. I guess it is like the GNU concept. Read that for further details...)

(iv) Support for compression is provided by the (mini) LZO library, which includes the following statement:

Based on SHA code originally posted to sci.crypt by Peter Gutmann in message <30ajo5$oe8@ccu2.auckland.ac.nz>. Modified to test for endianness on creation of SHA objects by AMK. Also, the original specification of SHA was found to have a weakness by NSA/NIST. This code implements the fixed version of SHA.

Arc4 random number generator for OpenBSD.
This code is derived from section 17.1 of Applied Cryptography, second edition, which describes a stream cipher allegedly compatible with RSA Labs "RC4" cipher (the actual description of which is a trade secret). The same algorithm is used as a stream cipher called "arcfour" in Tatu Ylonen's ssh package. Here the stream cipher has been modified always to include the time when initializing the state. That makes it impossible to regenerate the same random sequence twice, so this can't be used for encryption, but will generate good random numbers. RC4 is a registered trademark of RSA Laboratories.

This is a version (aka dlmalloc) of malloc/free/realloc written by Doug Lea and released to the public domain. Use, modify, and redistribute this code without permission or acknowledgement in any way you wish. Send questions, comments, complaints, performance data, etc to dl@cs.oswego.edu

APPLE PUBLIC SOURCE LICENSE Version 2.0 - August 6, 2003
Please read this License carefully before downloading this software. By downloading or using this software, you are agreeing to be bound by the terms of this License. If you do not or cannot agree to the terms of this License, please do not download or use the software.

Apple Note: In January 2007, Apple changed its corporate name from "Apple Computer, Inc." to "Apple Inc." This change has been reflected below and copyright years updated, but no other changes have been made to the APSL 2.0.

1. General; Definitions. This License applies to any program or other work which Apple Inc. ("Apple") makes publicly available and which contains a notice placed by Apple identifying such program or work as "Original Code" and stating that it is subject to the terms of this Apple Public Source License version 2.0 ("License"). As used in this License:

1.1 "Applicable Patent Rights" mean:

(a) in the case where Apple is the grantor of rights,

(i) claims of patents that are now or hereafter acquired, owned by or assigned to Apple and

(ii) that cover subject matter contained in the Original Code, but only to the extent necessary to use, reproduce and/or distribute the Original Code without infringement; and

(b) in the case where You are the grantor of rights,

(i) claims of patents that are now or hereafter acquired, owned by or assigned to You and

(ii) that cover subject matter in Your Modifications, taken alone or in combination with Original Code.

1.2 "Contributor" means any person or entity that creates or contributes to the creation of Modifications.

1.3 "Covered Code" means the Original Code, Modifications, the combination of Original Code and any Modifications, and/or any respective portions thereof.

1.4 "Externally Deploy" means: (a) to sublicense, distribute or otherwise make Covered Code available, directly or indirectly, to anyone other than You; and/or (b) to use Covered Code, alone or as part of a Larger Work, in any way to provide a service, including but not limited to delivery of content, through electronic communication with a client other than You.

1.5 "Larger Work" means a work which combines Covered Code or portions thereof with code not governed by the terms of this License.

1.6 "Modifications" mean any addition to, deletion from, and/or change to, the substance and/or structure of the Original Code, any previous Modifications, the combination of Original Code and any previous Modifications, and/or any respective portions thereof. When code is released as a series of files, a Modification is: (a) any addition to or deletion from the contents of a file containing Covered Code; and/or (b) any new file or other representation of computer program statements that contains any part of Covered Code.

1.7 "Original Code" means

(a) the Source Code of a program or other work as originally made available by Apple under this License, including the Source Code of any updates or upgrades to such programs or works made available by Apple under this License, and that has been expressly identified by Apple as such in the header file(s) of such work; and

(b) the object code compiled from such Source Code and originally made available by Apple under this License

1.8 "Source Code" means the human readable form of a program or other work that is suitable for making modifications to it, including all modules it contains, plus any associated interface definition files, scripts used to control compilation and installation of an executable (object code).

1.9 "You" or "Your" means an individual or a legal entity exercising rights under this License. For legal entities, "You" or "Your" includes any entity which controls, is controlled by, or is under common control with, You, where "control" means

(a) the power, direct or indirect, to cause the direction or management of such entity, whether by contract or otherwise, or

(b) ownership of fifty percent (50%) or more of the outstanding shares or beneficial ownership of such entity.

2. Permitted Uses; Conditions & Restrictions. Subject to the terms and conditions of this License, Apple hereby grants You, effective on the date You accept this License and download the Original Code, a world-wide, royalty-free, non-exclusive license, to the extent of Apple's Applicable Patent Rights and copyrights covering the Original Code, to do the following:

2.1 Unmodified Code. You may use, reproduce, display, perform, internally distribute within Your organization, and Externally Deploy verbatim, unmodified copies of the Original Code, for commercial or non-commercial purposes, provided that in each instance:

(a) You must retain and reproduce in all copies of Original Code the copyright and other proprietary notices and disclaimers of Apple as they appear in the Original Code, and keep intact all notices in the Original Code that refer to this License; and

(b) You must include a copy of this License with every copy of Source Code of Covered Code and documentation You distribute or Externally Deploy, and You may not offer or impose any terms on such Source Code that alter or restrict this License or the recipients' rights hereunder, except as permitted under Section 6.

2.2 Modified Code. You may modify Covered Code and use, reproduce, display, perform, internally distribute within Your organization, and Externally Deploy Your Modifications and Covered Code, for commercial or non-commercial purposes, provided that in each instance You also meet all of these conditions:

© 2009-2010 Wind River Sysrtems, Inc.

This information is provided for convenience only, to provide a general overview of our base product offering in a user-friendly format. It does not contain information for the build system, toolchain, board support packages or device drivers. This document is provided "as is" without any warranty whatsoever. This documentation may not be referenced or relied upon for its accuracy or comprehensiveness, or to determine legal obligations with respect to open source code contained in our products. Such determinations should be based upon recipient's independent legal analysis and by reference to the notices and licenses contained within the open source code itself. Wind River may change the contents of this document at any time at its sole discretion, and Wind River shall have no liability whatsoever arising from recipient's use of this information.

WIND RIVER CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION. Recipient of the following materials shall protect Discloser's Confidential Information using the same degree of care, but no less than reasonable care, to prevent the unauthorized use or dissemination of the Confidential Information.

(a) You must satisfy all the conditions of Section 2.1 with respect to the Source Code of the Covered Code;

(b) You must duplicate, to the extent it does not already exist, the notice in Exhibit A in each file of the Source Code of all Your Modifications, and cause the modified files to carry prominent notices stating that You changed the files and the date of any change; and

(c) If You Externally Deploy Your Modifications, You must make Source Code of all Your Externally Deployed Modifications either available to those to whom You have Externally Deployed Your Modifications, or publicly available. Source Code of Your Externally Deployed Modifications must be released under the terms set forth in this License, including the license grants set forth in Section 3 below, for as long as you Externally Deploy the Covered Code or twelve (12) months from the date of initial External Deployment, whichever is longer. You should preferably distribute the Source Code of Your Externally Deployed Modifications electronically (e.g. download from a web site).

2.3 Distribution of Executable Versions. In addition, if You Externally Deploy Covered Code (Original Code and/or Modifications) in object code, executable form only, You must include a prominent notice, in the code itself as well as in related documentation, stating that Source Code of the Covered Code is available under the terms of this License with information on how and where to obtain such Source Code.

2.4 Third Party Rights. You expressly acknowledge and agree that although Apple and each Contributor grants the licenses to their respective portions of the Covered Code set forth herein, no assurances are provided by Apple or any Contributor that the Covered Code does not infringe the patent or other intellectual property rights of any other entity. Apple and each Contributor disclaim any liability to You for claims brought by any other entity based on infringement of intellectual property rights or otherwise. As a condition to exercising the rights and licenses granted hereunder, You hereby assume sole responsibility to secure any other intellectual property rights needed, if any. For example, if a third party patent license is required to allow You to distribute the Covered Code, it is Your responsibility to acquire that license before distributing the Covered Code.

3. Your Grants. In consideration of, and as a condition to, the licenses granted to You under this License, You hereby grant to any person or entity receiving or distributing Covered Code under this License a non-exclusive, royalty-free, perpetual, irrevocable license, under Your Applicable Patent Rights and other intellectual property rights (other than patent) owned or controlled by You, to use, reproduce, display, perform, modify, sublicense, distribute and Externally Deploy Your Modifications of the same scope and extent as Apple's licenses under Sections 2.1 and 2.2 above.

4. Larger Works. You may create a Larger Work by combining Covered Code with other code not governed by the terms of this License and distribute the Larger Work as a single product. In each such instance, You must make sure the requirements of this License are fulfilled for the Covered Code or any portion thereof.

5. Limitations on Patent License. Except as expressly stated in Section 2, no other patent rights, express or implied, are granted by Apple herein. Modifications and/or Larger Works may require additional patent licenses from Apple which Apple may grant in its sole discretion.

6. Additional Terms. You may choose to offer, and to charge a fee for, warranty, support, indemnity or liability obligations and/or other rights consistent with the scope of the license granted herein ("Additional Terms") to one or more recipients of Covered Code. However, You may do so only on Your own behalf and as Your sole responsibility, and not on behalf of Apple or any Contributor. You must obtain the recipient's agreement that any such Additional Terms are offered by You alone, and You hereby agree to indemnify, defend and hold Apple and every Contributor harmless for any liability incurred by or claims asserted against Apple or such Contributor by reason of any such Additional Terms.

7. Versions of the License. Apple may publish revised and/or new versions of this License from time to time. Each version will be given a distinguishing version number. Once Original Code has been published under a particular version of this License, You may continue to use it under the terms of that version. You may also choose to use such Original Code under the terms of any subsequent version of this License published by Apple. No one other than Apple has the right to modify the terms applicable to Covered Code created under this License.

8. NO WARRANTY OR SUPPORT. The Covered Code may contain in whole or in part pre-release, untested, or not fully tested works. The Covered Code may contain errors that could cause failures or loss of data, and may be incomplete or contain inaccuracies. You expressly acknowledge and agree that use of the Covered Code, or any portion thereof, is at Your sole and entire risk.

THE COVERED CODE IS PROVIDED "AS IS" AND WITHOUT WARRANTY, UPGRADES OR SUPPORT OF ANY KIND AND APPLE AND APPLE'S LICENSOR(S) (COLLECTIVELY REFERRED TO AS "APPLE" FOR THE PURPOSES OF SECTIONS 8 AND 9) AND ALL CONTRIBUTORS EXPRESSLY DISCLAIM ALL WARRANTIES AND/OR CONDITIONS, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, INCLUDING, BUT NOT LIMITED TO, THE IMPLIED WARRANTIES AND/OR CONDITIONS OF MERCHANTABILITY, OF SATISFACTORY QUALITY, OF FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE, OF ACCURACY, OF QUIET ENJOYMENT, AND NONINFRINGEMENT OF THIRD PARTY RIGHTS.

APPLE AND EACH CONTRIBUTOR DOES NOT WARRANT AGAINST INTERFERENCE WITH YOUR ENJOYMENT OF THE COVERED CODE, THAT THE FUNCTIONS CONTAINED IN THE COVERED CODE WILL MEET YOUR REQUIREMENTS, THAT THE OPERATION OF THE COVERED CODE WILL BE UNINTERRUPTED OR ERROR-FREE, OR THAT DEFECTS IN THE COVERED CODE WILL BE CORRECTED. NO ORAL OR WRITTEN INFORMATION OR ADVICE GIVEN BY APPLE, AN APPLE AUTHORIZED REPRESENTATIVE OR ANY CONTRIBUTOR SHALL CREATE A WARRANTY.

You acknowledge that the Covered Code is not intended for use in the operation of nuclear facilities, aircraft navigation, communication systems, or air traffic control machines in which case the failure of the Covered Code could lead to death, personal injury, or severe physical or environmental damage.

9. LIMITATION OF LIABILITY.
TO THE EXTENT NOT PROHIBITED BY LAW, IN NO EVENT SHALL APPLE OR ANY CONTRIBUTOR BE LIABLE FOR ANY INCIDENTAL, SPECIAL, INDIRECT OR CONSEQUENTIAL DAMAGES ARISING OUT OF OR RELATING TO THIS LICENSE OR YOUR USE OR INABILITY TO USE THE COVERED CODE, OR ANY PORTION THEREOF, WHETHER UNDER A THEORY OF CONTRACT, WARRANTY, TORT (INCLUDING NEGLIGENCE), PRODUCTS LIABILITY OR OTHERWISE,

This information is provided for convenience only, to provide a general overview of our base product offering in a user-friendly format. It does not contain information for the build system, toolchain, board support packages or device drivers. This document is provided "as is" without any warranty whatsoever. This documentation may not be referenced or relied upon for its accuracy or comprehensiveness, or to determine legal obligations with respect to open source code contained in our products. Such determinations should be based upon recipient's independent legal analysis and by reference to the notices and licenses contained within the open source code itself. Wind River may change the contents of this document at any time at its sole discretion, and Wind River shall have no liability whatsoever arising from recipient's use of this information.

WIND RIVER CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION. Recipient of the following materials shall protect Discloser's Confidential Information using the same degree of care, but no less than reasonable care, to prevent the unauthorized use or dissemination of the Confidential Information.

EVEN IF APPLE OR SUCH CONTRIBUTOR HAS BEEN ADVISED OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGES AND NOTWITHSTANDING THE FAILURE OF ESSENTIAL PURPOSE OF ANY REMEDY. SOME JURISDICTIONS DO NOT ALLOW THE LIMITATION OF LIABILITY OF INCIDENTAL OR CONSEQUENTIAL DAMAGES, SO THIS LIMITATION MAY NOT APPLY TO YOU.

In no event shall Apple's total liability to You for all damages (other than as may be required by applicable law) under this License exceed the amount of fifty dollars ($50.00).

10. Trademarks. This License does not grant any rights to use the trademarks or trade names "Apple", "Mac", "Mac OS", "QuickTime", "QuickTime Streaming Server" or any other trademarks, service marks, logos or trade names belonging to Apple (collectively "Apple Marks") or to any trademark, service mark, logo or trade name belonging to any Contributor. You agree not to use any Apple Marks in or as part of the name of products derived from the Original Code or to endorse or promote products derived from the Original Code other than as expressly permitted by and in strict compliance at all times with Apple's third party trademark usage guidelines which are posted at http://www.apple.com/legal/guidelinesfor3rdparties.html.

11. Ownership. Subject to the licenses granted under this License, each Contributor retains all rights, title and interest in and to any Modifications made by such Contributor. Apple retains all rights, title and interest in and to the Original Code and any Modifications made by or on behalf of Apple ("Apple Modifications"), and such Apple Modifications will not be automatically subject to this License. Apple may, at its sole discretion, choose to license such Apple Modifications under this License, or on different terms from those contained in this License or may choose not to license them at all.

12. Termination.
12.1 Termination. This License and the rights granted hereunder will terminate:

(a) automatically without notice from Apple if You fail to comply with any term(s) of this License and fail to cure such breach within 30 days of becoming aware of such breach;

(b) immediately in the event of the circumstances described in Section 13.5(b); or

(c) automatically without notice from Apple if You, at any time during the term of this License, commence an action for patent infringement against Apple; provided that Apple did not first commence an action for patent infringement against You in that instance.

12.2 Effect of Termination. Upon termination, You agree to immediately stop any further use, reproduction, modification, sublicensing and distribution of the Covered Code. All sublicenses to the Covered Code which have been properly granted prior to termination shall survive any termination of this License. Provisions which, by their nature, should remain in effect beyond the termination of this License shall survive, including but not limited to Sections 3, 5, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12.2 and 13. No party will be liable to any other for compensation, indemnity or damages of any sort solely as a result of terminating this License in accordance with its terms, and termination of this License will be without prejudice to any other right or remedy of any party.

13. Miscellaneous.

13.1 Government End Users. The Covered Code is a "commercial item" as defined in FAR 2.101. Government software and technical data rights in the Covered Code include only those rights customarily provided to the public as defined in this License. This customary commercial license in technical data and software is provided in accordance with FAR 12.211 (Technical Data) and 12.212 (Computer Software) and, for Department of Defense purchases, DFAR 252.227-7015 (Technical Data -- Commercial Items) and 227.7202-3 (Rights in Commercial Computer Software or Computer Software Documentation). Accordingly, all U.S. Government End Users acquire Covered Code with only those rights set forth herein.

13.2 Relationship of Parties. This License will not be construed as creating an agency, partnership, joint venture or any other form of legal association between or among You, Apple or any Contributor, and You will not represent to the contrary, whether expressly, by implication, appearance or otherwise.

13.3 Independent Development. Nothing in this License will impair Apple's right to acquire, license, develop, have others develop for it, market and/or distribute technology or products that perform the same or similar functions as, or otherwise compete with, Modifications, Larger Works, technology or products that You may develop, produce, market or distribute.

13.4 Waiver; Construction. Failure by Apple or any Contributor to enforce any provision of this License will not be deemed a waiver of future enforcement of that or any other provision. Any law or regulation which provides that the language of a contract shall be construed against the drafter will not apply to this License.

13.5 Severability. (a) If for any reason a court of competent jurisdiction finds any provision of this License, or portion thereof, to be unenforceable, that provision of the License will be enforced to the maximum extent permissible so as to effect the economic benefits and intent of the parties, and the remainder of this License will continue in full force and effect. (b) Notwithstanding the foregoing, if applicable law prohibits or restricts You from fully and/or specifically complying with Sections 2 and/or 3 or prevents the enforceability of either of those Sections, this License will immediately terminate and You must immediately discontinue any use of the Covered Code and destroy all copies of it that are in your possession or control.

13.6 Dispute Resolution. Any litigation or other dispute resolution between You and Apple relating to this License shall take place in the Northern District of California, and You and Apple hereby consent to the personal jurisdiction of, and venue in, the state and federal courts within that District with respect to this License. The application of the United Nations Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods is expressly excluded.

13.7 Entire Agreement; Governing Law. This License constitutes the entire agreement between the parties with respect to the subject matter hereof. This License shall be governed by the laws of the United States and the State of California, except that body of California law concerning conflicts of law. Where You are located in the province of Quebec, Canada, the following clause applies: The parties hereby confirm that they have requested that this License and all related documents be drafted in English. Les parties ont exigé que le présent contrat et tous les documents connexes soient rédigés en anglais.

This library allows you to use TrueType fonts to render text in SDL applications. Be careful when including fonts with your application, as many of them are copyrighted. The Microsoft fonts, for example, are not freely redistributable and even the free "web" fonts they provide are only redistributable in their special executable installer form (May 1998). There are plenty of freeware and shareware fonts available on the Internet though, and may suit your purposes.

This library is available under the GNU Library General Public License, see the file "COPYING" for details. Enjoy!

Note that this feature is covered by several Microsoft patents and should not be activated in any default build of the library. Note that there are important patent issues related to the use of the interpreter. By undefining this, you will only compile the code necessary to load TrueType glyphs without hinting.

If you define TT_CONFIG_OPTION_UNPATENTED_HINTING, a special version of the TrueType bytecode interpreter is used that doesn't implement any of the patented opcodes and algorithms.

1. This software is distributed in the hope that it will be useful, but WITHOUT ANY WARRANTY; without even the implied warranty of MERCHANTABILITY or FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE.

2. The origin of this software must not be misrepresented, either by explicit claim or by omission. In practice, this means that if you use PCRE in software that you distribute to others, commercially or otherwise, you must put a sentence like this

> "Regular expression support is provided by the PCRE library package, which is open source software, written by Philip Hazel, and copyright by the University of Cambridge, England" somewhere reasonably visible in your documentation and in any relevant files or online help data or similar. A reference to the ftp site for the source, that is, to ftp://ftp.csx.cam.ac.uk/pub/software/programming/pcre/ should also be given in the documentation.

However, this condition is not intended to apply to whole chains of software. If package A includes PCRE, it must acknowledge it, but if package B is software that includes package A, the condition is not imposed on package B (unless it uses PCRE independently).

3. Altered versions must be plainly marked as such, and must not be misrepresented as being the original software.

4. If PCRE is embedded in any software that is released under the GNU General Purpose Licence (GPL), or Lesser General Purpose Licence (LGPL), then the terms of that licence shall supersede any condition above with which it is incompatible.

The documentation for PCRE, supplied in the "doc" directory, is distributed under the same terms as the software itself.

NOTE: This license has been obsoleted by the change to the BSD-style copyright. You may continue to use this license if you wish, but you are under no obligation to do so. This document is freely plagiarised from the 'Artistic Licence', distributed as part of the Perl v4.0 kit by Larry Wall, which is available from most major archive sites. I stole it from CrackLib.

This documents purpose is to state the conditions under which this Package (See definition below) viz: "Shadow", the Shadow Password Suite which is held by Julianne Frances Haugh, may be copied, such that the copyright holder maintains some semblance of artistic control over the development of the package, while giving the users of the package the right to use and distribute the Package in a more-or-less customary fashion, plus the right to make reasonable modifications.

So there.

Definitions:

A "Package" refers to the collection of files distributed by the Copyright Holder, and derivatives of that collection of files created through textual modification, or segments thereof.

"Standard Version" refers to such a Package if it has not been modified, or has been modified in accordance with the wishes of the Copyright Holder.

"Copyright Holder" is whoever is named in the copyright or copyrights for the package.

"You" is you, if you're thinking about copying or distributing this Package.

"Reasonable copying fee" is whatever you can justify on the basis of media cost, duplication charges, time of people involved, and so on. (You will not be required to justify it to the Copyright Holder, but only to the computing community at large as a market that must bear the fee.)

"Freely Available" means that no fee is charged for the item itself, though there may be fees involved in handling the item. It also means that recipients of the item may redistribute it under the same conditions they received it.

1. You may make and give away verbatim copies of the source form of the Standard Version of this Package without restriction, provided that you duplicate all of the original copyright notices and associated disclaimers.

2. You may apply bug fixes, portability fixes and other modifications derived from the Public Domain or from the Copyright Holder. A Package modified in such a way shall still be considered the Standard Version.

3. You may otherwise modify your copy of this Package in any way, provided that you insert a prominent notice in each changed file stating how and when AND WHY you changed that file, and provided that you do at least ONE of the following:

> a) place your modifications in the Public Domain or otherwise make them Freely Available, such as by posting said modifications to Usenet or an equivalent medium, or placing the modifications on a major archive site such as uunet.uu.net, or by allowing the Copyright Holder to include your modifications in the Standard Version of the Package.
> b) use the modified Package only within your corporation or organization.
>
> c) rename any non-standard executables so the names do not conflict with standard executables, which must also be provided, and provide separate documentation for each non-standard executable that clearly documents how it differs from the Standard Version.
> d) make other distribution arrangements with the Copyright Holder.

4. You may distribute the programs of this Package in object code or executable form, provided that you do at least ONE of the following:

> a) distribute a Standard Version of the executables and library files, together with instructions (in the manual page or equivalent) on where to get the Standard Version.
> b) accompany the distribution with the machine-readable source of the Package with your modifications.
>
> c) accompany any non-standard executables with their corresponding Standard Version executables, giving the non-standard executables non-standard names, and clearly documenting the differences in manual pages (or equivalent), together with instructions on where to get the Standard Version.
> d) make other distribution arrangements with the Copyright Holder.

5. You may charge a reasonable copying fee for any distribution of this Package. You may charge any fee you choose for support of this Package.

YOU MAY NOT CHARGE A FEE FOR THIS PACKAGE ITSELF. However, you may distribute this Package in aggregate with other (possibly commercial) programs as part of a larger (possibly commercial) software distribution provided that YOU DO NOT ADVERTISE this package as a product of your own.

As a special exception, you may create a larger work that contains part or all of the Bison parser skeleton and distribute that work under terms of your choice, so long as that work isn't itself a parser generator using the skeleton or a modified version thereof as a parser skeleton. Description:	Tools for monitoring SMART capable hard disks; smartmontools contains utilities that control and monitor storage devices using the Self-Monitoring, Analysis and Reporting Technology (S.M.A.R.T.) system build into ATA and SCSI Hard Drives. This is used to check the reliability of the hard drive and to predict drive failures. smartmontools Version 5.x is designed to comply to the ATA/ATAPI-5 specification (Revision 1). Future releases of smartmontools (Versions 6.x and 7.x) will comply with the ATA/ATAPI-6 and ATA/ATAPI-7 specifications. This package is meant to be an up-to-date replacement for the ucsc-smartsuite and smartsuite packages, and is derived from that code. The smartmontools package contains two utility programs (smartctl and smartd) to control and monitor storage systems using the Self-Monitoring, Analysis and Reporting Technology System (SMART) built into most modern ATA and SCSI harddisks. In many cases, these utilities will provide advanced warning of disk degradation and failure. Smartmontools was originally derived from the Linux smartsuite package and actually supports ATA/ATAPI/SATA-3 to -8 disks and SCSI disks and tape devices. It should run on any modern Darwin (Mac OS X), Linux, FreeBSD, NetBSD, OpenBSD, Solaris, OS/2, Cygwin, QNX, eComStation or Windows system. Smartmontools can also be run from one of many different bootable CDs or floppies. Due to OS-specific issues and also depending on the different state of smartmontools development on the platforms, device support is not the same for all OS platforms. We provide info about RAID-controller support here on the homepage and of course in the manpages.

direct access routines to ATA device under Solaris/SPARC

Information - In Solaris, programmer can pass SCSI command to target device directly by using USCSI ioctl or using "scg" generic SCSI driver. But, such method does not exist for ATA devices.

However, I can access Solaris kernel source because I am subscriber of Source Foundation Program of Solaris. So, I can find method of accessing ATA device directly. The method is to pack command in undocumented structure and issue ioctl that appears only in kernel source. Yes, that is the same way in using USCSI interface.

But, I met difficulty in disclosing this technique. I have signed NDA with Sun that inhibits me not to violate their intellectual property. Fortunately, Sun allows licensees to publish "Interfaces" if:

(1) he/she treats Solaris code as confidential

(2) and he/she doesn't incorporate Sun's code into his/her code

(3) and disclose enough information to use "Interface" to everyone.

So, I publish that technique in assembly code or object code because:

(1) I believe Sun's intellectural property is not invaded because I didn't reveal any struct member and ioctl to non-licensee.

(2) no piece of kernel source is included in this code.

(3) And finally, I publish enough information below in order to use this code.

For last reason, please don't remove "Calling Interface" section from distribution.

Calling Interface - Name of function/macro presents corresponding S.M.A.R.T. command. Parameters are described below.

int fd
File descriptor of ATA device. Device would be /dev/rdsk/cXtXdXsX. Device should be raw device serviced by "dada" driver. ATAPI CD-ROM/R/RW, DVD-ROM, and so on are not allowed because they are serviced by "sd" driver. On x86 Solaris, "cmdk" driver services them, this routines doesn't work.

int s
Select sector for service. For example, this indicates log sector number for smart_read_log() function. Probably you need to read ATA specification for this parameter.

void data
Data going to be read/written. It don't have to be word aligned, But data shall points valid user memory space. This is very tiny routines, but if you feel this insufficient, please let me know.

SoX (Sound eXchange) is the Swiss Army knife of sound processing tools: it translates sound files between many different file formats, and can apply many sound effects and transforms, as well as doing basic analysis and providing input to more capable analysis and plotting tools.

SoX is distributed under the GNU GPL and GNU LGPL. To be precise: the sox program is distributed under the GPL, while the library libsox, in which most of SoX's functionality resides, is dual-licensed. Note that some optional components of libsox are GPL only: if you use these, you must use libsox under the GPL.

From:
sox-14.0.1/sox-14.0.1/copying
SoX source code is distributed under two main licenses. The two licenses are in the files LICENSE.GPL and LICENSE.LGPL.

sox.c, and thus SoX-the user application, is distributed under the GPL, while the files that make up libsox are licensed under the less restrictive LGPL. Note that some of the external packages that can be linked in to libsox are GPLed and/or may have licensing problems, so they can be disabled at configure time with the relevant--with- options. If libsox is built with such libraries, it must be distributed under the GPL.
[Editor's Note: Files license.gpl and license.lgpl not found in this package.]

Based on FFT.cpp from Audacity, with the following permission from its author, Dominic Mazzoni (in particular, relicensing the code for use in SoX):

I hereby license you under the LGPL all of the code in FFT.cpp from any version of Audacity, with the exception of the windowing function code, as I wrote the rest of the line [sic] that appears in any version of Audacity (or they are derived from Don Cross or NR, which is okay). - Dominic Mazzoni <dominic@audacityteam.org>, 18th November 2006

As regards the windowing function, WindowFunc, Dominic granted a license to it too, writing on the same day:

OK, we're good. That's the original version that I wrote, before others contributed. Some of this code was based on a free implementation of an FFT by Don Cross, available on the web at:
http://www.intersrv.com/~dcross/fft.html [no longer, it seems]

The basic algorithm for his code was based on Numerical Recipes in Fortran. This file is now part of SoX, and is

The author disclaims copyright to this source code. In place of a legal notice, here is a blessing:

May you do good and not evil.
May you find forgiveness for yourself and forgive others.
May you share freely, never taking more than you give.

This test data is taken from http://www.tartarus.org/martin/PorterStemmer/

There is no claim of copyright made on that page, but you should probably contact the author (Martin Porter - the inventor of the Porter Stemmer algorithm) if you want to use this test data in a commerical product of some kind. The stemmer code in FTS1 is a complete rewrite from scratch based on the algorithm specification and does not contain any code under copyright.

This code implements the MD5 message-digest algorithm. The algorithm is due to Ron Rivest. This code was written by Colin Plumb in 1993, no copyright is claimed. This code is in the public domain; do with it what you wish.

Equivalent code is available from RSA Data Security, Inc. This code has been tested against that, and is equivalent, except that you don't need to include two pages of legalese with every copy.

Some code in liblf is under the LGPL, included in this file. This means that effectively the whole library is LGPL until/unless the LGPL code is replaced. However, most of the code is provided under a so-called BSD/X-style license. Each source code file in liblf is marked with the license that applies to that file.

Description:	strongSwan is an OpenSource IPsec implementation for the Linux operating system. It is based on the discontinued FreeS/WAN project and the X.509 patch. strongSwan is a complete IPsec and IKEv1 implementation for Linux 2.4 and 2.6 kernels. It also fully supports the new IKEv2 protocol with Linux 2.6 kernels. It interoperates in both IKEv1 and IKEv2 mode with most other IPsec-based VPN products. The focus of the strongSwan project is on strong authentication mechanisms using X.509 public key certificates and optional secure storage of private keys on smartcards through a standardized PKCS11 interface. A unique feature is the use of X.509 attribute certificates to implement advanced access control schemes based on group memberships. strongSwan is an OpenSource IPsec implementation for the Linux operating system. It is based on the discontinued FreeS/WAN project and the X.509 patch which we developed over the last three years. In order to have a stable IPsec platform to base our future extensions of the X.509 capability on, we decided to lauch the strongSwan project. As a descendant of the FreeS/WAN project, it continues to be released under the GPL license. The project is actively maintained by Andreas Steffen who is a professor for Security in Communications at the University of Applied Sciences in Rapperswil, Switzerland. The focus of the strongSwan project is on strong authentication mechanisms using X.509 public key certificates and optional secure storage of private keys on smartcards through a standardized PKCS11 interface. It supports certificate revocation lists and the Online Certificate Status Protocol (OCSP). A unique feature is the use of X.509 attribute certificates to implement advanced access control schemes based on group memberships.

strongswan-4.4.0/strongswan-4.4.0/CREDITS
We haven't kept proper track of everybody who has helped us, alas, but here's a first attempt at acknowledgements...

Most of the FreeS/WAN software has been done by Richard Guy Briggs (KLIPS), D. Hugh Redelmeier (Pluto), Michael Richardson (technical lead, KLIPS, testing, etc.), Henry Spencer (past technical lead, scripts, libraries, packaging, etc.), Sandy Harris (documentation), Claudia Schmeing (support, documentation), and Sam Sgro (support, releases).

Peter Onion has collaborated extensively with RGB on PFKEY2 stuff. The original version of our IPComp code came from Svenning Soerensen, who has also contributed various bug fixes and improvements.

The first versions of Pluto were done by Angelos D. Keromytis <angelos@dsl.cis.upenn.edu>.

The MD2 implementation is from RSA Data Security Inc., so this package must include the following phrase: "RSA Data Security, Inc. MD2 Message Digest Algorithm" It is not under the GPL; see details in programs/pluto/md2.c.

The MD5 implementation is from RSA Data Security Inc., so this package must include the following phrase: "derived from the RSA Data Security, Inc. MD5 Message-Digest Algorithm". It is not under the GPL; see details in linux/net/ipsec/ipsec_md5c.c.

The PKCS11 header files in programs/pluto/rsaref/ are from RSA Security Inc., so they must include the following phrase: "RSA Security Inc. PKCS11 Cryptographic Token Interface (Cryptoki)". The headers are not under the GPL; see details in programs/pluto/rsaref/pkcs11.h.

The LIBDES library by Eric Young is used. It is not under the GPL -- see details in libdes/COPYRIGHT -- although he has graciously waived the advertising clause for FreeS/WAN use of LIBDES.

The SHA-1 code is derived from Steve Reid's; it is public domain.

Some bits of Linux code, notably drivers/net/new_tunnel.c and net/ipv4/ipip.c, are used in heavily modified forms.

The lib/pfkeyv2.h header file contains public-domain material published in RFC 2367.

Delete SA code and Notification messages were contributed by Mathieu Lafon. He also implemented the vital NAT traversal support.

Peter Onion has been immensely helpful in finding portability bugs in general, and in making FreeS/WAN work on the Alpha in particular. Rob Hatfield likewise found and fixed some problems making it work on the Netwinder.

John S. Denker of AT&T Shannon Labs has found a number of bugs the hard way, has pointed out various problems (some of which we have fixed!) in using the software in production applications, and has suggested some substantial improvements to the documentation.

Marc Boucher <marc@mbsi.ca> did a quick-and-dirty port of KLIPS to the Linux 2.2.x kernels, at a time when we needed it badly, and has helped chase down 2.2.xx bugs and keep us current with 2.4.x development.

John Gilmore organized the FreeS/WAN project and continues to direct it. Hugh Daniel handles day-to-day management, customer interface, and both constructive and destructive testing. See the project's web page <http://www.freeswan.org> for other contributors to this project and related ones.

Herbert Xu ported the FreeS/WAN code to the native IPsec stack of the Linux 2.6 kernel.

Kai Martius added initial support of OpenPGP certificates.

Andreas Steffen introduced the support of X.509 certificates in 2000 and has been both maintaining the X.509 code and adding extensions to it ever since.

Andreas Hess, Patric Lichtsteiner, and Roger Wegmann implemented the the initial X.509 certificate support, relying on Kai Martius's work.

Marco Bertossa and Andreas Schleiss implemented the verification of the X.509 chain from the peer certificate up to the root CA.

Ueli Galizzi and Ariane Seiler did the original work on the support of attribute certificates.

Martin Berner and Lukas Suter implemented the definition of group attributes and dynamic fetching of attribute certificates.

Christoph Gysin and Simon Zwahlen implemented PKCS15-based smartcard suppport and contributed a fully operational OCSP client.

David Buechi and Michael Meier implemented the PKCS11 smartcard interface.

The support of port and protocol selectors was based on Stephen J. Bevan's original work.

Stephane Laroche donated the original LDAP and HTTP fetching code based on pthreads.

JuanJo Ciarlante introduced the modular support of alternative encryption and authentication algorithms (AES, Serpent, twofish, etc).

The ipsec starter is based on Mathieu Lafon's original work.

Jan Hutter and Martin Willi developed the scepclient which fully supports Cisco's Simple Certificate Enrollment Protocol (SCEP).

Tobias Brunner and Daniel Roethlisberger implemented NAT traversal and dead peer detection for the IKEv2 keying daemon.

Daniel Wydler implemented the integrity test of the libstrongswan code using the FIPS_canister code from the OpenSSL-FIPS project.

Group:	User Space Apps / Applications/System
Description:	A utility that allows restricted root access for specified users. Sudo is a program designed to allow a sysadmin to give limited root privileges to users and log root activity. The basic philosophy is to give as few privileges as possible but still allow people to get their work done. Sudo operates on a per-command basis. It is not a replacement for the shell. Features include: the ability to restrict what commands a user may run on a per-host basis, copious logging of each command (providing a clear audit trail of who did what), a configurable timeout of the sudo command, and the ability to use the same configuration file (sudoers) on many different machines.

This is the etherboot intel etherexpress Pro/100B driver. It was written from scratch, with Donald Beckers eepro100.c kernel driver as a guideline. Mostly the 82557 related definitions and the lower level routines have been cut-and-pasted into this source. The driver was finished before Intel got the NDA out of the closet. Datasheet is now published and available from ftp://download.intel.com/design/network/manuals/8255X_OpenSDM.pdf - Michael Brown

As copyright holder, if I say it doesn't conflict with the GPL, then it doesn't conflict with the GPL. However, there's no point in causing people's brains to overheat, so yes, I grant permission for the code to be relicensed under the GPLv2. Please make sure that this change in licensing makes its way upstream. -russ

This code is used to optimize rf gain on different environments (temprature mostly) based on feedback from a power detector. It's only used on RF5111 and RF5112, later RF chips seem to have auto adjustment on hw -notice they have a much smaller BANK 7 and no gain optimization ladder-. For more infos check out this patent doc http://www.freepatentsonline.com/7400691.html

This function performs a noise floor calibration of the PHY and waits for it to complete. Then the noise floor value is compared to some maximum noise floor we consider valid. Note that this is different from what the madwifi HAL does: it reads the noise floor and afterwards initiates the calibration. Since the noise floor calibration can take some time to finish, depending on the current channel use, that avoids the occasional timeout warnings we are seeing now.

See the following link for an Atheros patent on noise floor calibration: http://patft.uspto.gov/netacgi/nph-Parser?Sect1=PTO1&Sect2=HITOFF&d=PALL&p=1&u=%2Fnetahtml%2FPTO%2Fsrchnum.htm&r=1&f=G&l=50&s1=7245893.PN.&OS=PN/7

XXX: Since during noise floor calibration antennas are detached according to the patent, we should stop tx queues here.

Write the delta slope coefficient (used on pilot tracking ?) for OFDM operation on the AR5212 upon reset. This is a helper for ath5k_hw_reset().

Since delta slope is floating point we split it on its exponent and mantissa and provide these values on hw. For more infos i think this patent is related http://www.freepatentsonline.com/7184495.html

There are some special registers on the RF chip that control various operation settings related mostly to the analog parts (channel, gain adjustment etc). We don't write on those registers directly but we send a data packet on the chip, using a special register, that holds all the settings we need. Also check out reg.h and U.S. Patent 6677779 B1 (about buffer registers and control registers): http://www.google.com/patents?id=qNURAAAAEBAJ

Description:	Syslog replacement daemon, but with new functionality for the new generation. The original syslogd allows messages only to be sorted based on priority/facility pairs; syslog-ng adds the possibility to filter based on message contents using regular expressions. The new configuration scheme is intuitive and powerful. Forwarding logs over TCP and remembering all forwarding hops makes it ideal for firewalled environments.

Description:	Sysstat is a collection of utilities designed to collect information about the performance of a Linux installation and record it over time. The sysstat package contains the sar, sadf, iostat, mpstat, and pidstat commands for Linux. The sar command collects and reports system activity information. The sadf command may be used to display data collected by sar in various formats. The iostat command reports CPU statistics and I/O statistics for tty devices and disks. The pidstat command reports statistics for Linux processes. The mpstat command reports global and per-processor statistics.
